TaftRequestsAlliance With Britain to Stop UN Pacific Area Veto

Senate Leader Clarifies His May 26 Views and Says Truce Would Put Him Back With Eisenhower in Far East Views

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) called today for a military alliance with the British in the Pacific to bypass the United Nations veto in that critical world area.

The Senate GOP leader issued a statement clarifying the views he expressed in a Cincinnati speech May 26 which caused President Eisenhower to say "no," that he couldn't agree with Taft that the U. S. "might as well forget the United Nations so far as the Korean War is concerned" if efforts to obtain an armistice fail.

Eisenhower said the U. S. would have to "go it alone" everywhere if it operated single-handedly in Asia.

In an interview before he issued the formal statement, Taft made it clear that any early truce in Korea would likely put him back in the same foreign policy boat with Eisenhower in the Far East.

The Ohio senator said he is resigned to United Nations participation in the peace decisions which would follow a Korean cease-fire—a course Eisenhower apparently intends to pursue.

Hasn't Changed Opinion

But if armistice negotiations fail, Taft indicated in the statement that he has not changed his view that the U. S. "might as well forget" the UN in dealing with the Korean situation. He denied he ever advocated "go it alone" policies and did not mention any differences of opinion with Eisenhower.

Taft said the United Nations had proved itself unable to halt aggression. He added that it was "ridiculous" to have nations such as India "which say they are not on the side of the United Nations at all but are neutral" participating in truce and peace decisions.

His statement declared:

"How ridiculous that our course should be guided by nations claiming with one breath to be part of the United Nations and with the other to be opposed to the principles declared by the Assembly of the United Nations; namely, the driving of the Chinese from Korea and its unification."

Taft said that if the U. S. is able to "disentangle" itself from the UN, it already has treaties with Australia, New Zealand, Japan and the Philippines "and a very definite understanding with the French in Indochina."

"I think we should have a free hand to form an alliance with the British if we possibly can do so as to how Far Eastern affairs should be conducted," he said.

"An alliance has this advantage over the United Nations — that each member can express his views and no other member can veto his action, as the United Nations or Secretary Acheson vetoed the hot pursuit by our airplanes in Manchuria.

"I believe we should try to work with Britain in a military alliance in the east, but not one in which they possess any final veto against our policies."

Army, Tent Worms Infest Wide Areas; Most in 20 Years

Caterpillars Stall Freight Train 35 Minutes at Watertown; Other Pests Active

(By The Associated Press)

Two of mankind's toughest insect foes—army worms and tent caterpillars — are voraciously rampaging in record hordes in several sections of the country this year.

A check by Associated Press bureaus brought such comments as "heaviest infestation in 20 years," . . . "worsening by the hour" . . . "milion dollar damage to crops," and comment by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that preliminary results of a survey now underway showed a "general outbreak" of army worms from the east coast to the Mississippi.

Tracks Are Blanketed

At Watertown, N. Y., tent caterpillars blanketed railroad tracks in such hordes that a freight train was delayed 35 minutes as wheels skidded on the pulpy mass. Minnesota was ready to do battle, with the most complete pest control program in 30 years, against what experts have predicted will be the state's "worst tent caterpillar infestation" in history.

Two other insect pests were reported out in major force in more limited areas, Massachusetts is contending with gypsy moths that are expected to strip trees of their foliage across 25,000 acres; and the grape steely beetle is plaguing vineyards in an area around Westfield, N. Y.

Serious Infestations

Serious infestations of army worms were reported from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, West Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Louisiana and Tennessee.

Tent caterpillars are concentrated in New Jersey, New York, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Washington, Georgia and Maine. No one could say what the cause of the outbreak was, but freakish weather was mentioned as a possible reason in some quarters.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture said its survey showed particularly heavy army worm outbreaks in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Tennessee.

Corn Beetle, Boll Weevil

In addition, it reported damage in Illinois and Indiana by the corn flea beetle and harm to the cotton crop in some sections of the south by the boll weevil.

The army worms concentrate on grass crops such as clover and grains like barley, rye, wheat and corn—but if supplies run out they readily turn to tobacco, tomatoes and other garden crops. They are about an inch and a quarter long, thick as a pencil, and have a smooth greyish brown appearance. After they have eaten their fill, within the next two weeks in most sections, they go underground and emerge in the fall as moths.

The tent caterpillar (furry, inch and a half long) also becomes an autumn moth, but digests its feast of leaves on tree branches. The caterpillars swarm together to build silken houses. The army worms and gypsy moths prefer to grow up in solitude.

Certain About Auriol

Paris, June 5 (AP)—President Vincent Auriol today asked Catholic Georges Bidault to form his third French postwar cabinet. The often-times foreign minister said he would reply tomorrow, but friends said he was certain to accept the bid. Auriol nominated Bidault as a second middle-of-the-road candidate to end France's two-week-old government crisis, after the National Assembly last night turned down the bid of another—Pierre Mendes-France, of the Radical Socialists—to take over the government reins.

'Private Eye' Stirs Complaint to Police

This is the story of a private eye with a camera eye.

Police headquarters was notified early yesterday afternoon that a man was "taking pictures" on Fair street, near John, and the person who telephoned, apparently was complaining.

The man left in a car the license number of which was taken, the report said.

Officers William Hanley and Crawford Millham were dispatched to investigate and reported that the camera work had been done by a New York private detective.

Court of Appeals Sustains Validity Of Fiscal Measure

Take-It-or-Leave-It Plan for Manhattan Passes by Vote of 6 to 1

Albany, June 5 (AP)—The Court of Appeals today upheld by a 6-1 vote the constitutionality of the Dewey administration's take-it-or-leave-it fiscal program for New York city.

In a per curiam (by the court) opinion, the state's highest court wrote that "we can not say that the legislation on its face is unconstitutional."

Associate Judge Marvin R. Dye dissented. He said in a minority opinion that the legislation infringed on home rule.

Last Legal Chance

The court's decision stripped Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's administration of its last legal chance to throw out the drastic "package" legislation drawn by Gov. Dewey and his financial advisers to bail the city out of the red.

The key point in the Dewey program required the city to turn over its debt-plagued subway and bus systems to a transit authority that had the power to raise the 10-cent fare.

If this were not done, the city would lose the right to boost its real estate taxes by 50 million dollars, the legislation provided.

Door Not Closed

The Court of Appeals, in upholding lower court decisions on the program's constitutionality, did not close the door to possible future litigation arising from the application of the legislation.

The court said:

"Whether statutes will be constitutionally applied, or whether other constitutional questions not now foreseeable will arise, we cannot know in advance. Such problems, if any, must be dealt with when presented."

Permissive Legislation

The court pointed out that the legislation was permissive.

In a three-hour argument before the Court of Appeals last Friday, the city contended the Dewey program violated the home-rule provision.

The state argued that the Public Transit Authority was "the only answer" to the city's program of financing a 50-million-dollar-a-year transit operating deficit.

Justice Benjamin F. Schreiber of State Supreme Court upheld the

Atomic Energy Is Credited With Saving Many Lives

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

New York, June 5 (AP)—Atomic energy already has saved many times more lives than the 80,000 lost by atomic bombs exploded over Japan, Dr. John Z. Bowers said today.

The life-saving has come through use of radioactive atoms in medicine, Bowers, dean and professor of radiobiology, University of Utah College of Medicine, told the American Medical Association (AMA).

In a speech prepared for the closing session of the AMA convention, Bowers gave some examples of how atomic energy has quietly been saving lives:

Radioactive atoms, which can be traced wherever they go, are in effect making the human body transparent. Doctors can learn where drugs go, how drugs do their good work. They can learn how glands work, even what part of living cells do the work which saves or preserves health.

Mysteries of the adrenal glands are being solved with the aid of radioactive atoms. This has aided in treatments of rheumatoid arthritis, and rheumatic fever, the great heart-killer among children.

Radioactive iodine is helping in treating diseases, including cancer of the thyroid gland, Bowers continued. And there are hopes that cancers elsewhere in the body can be treated by finding chemicals which will go just to those cancers. Those chemicals could be made radioactive, to go to the cancers and then give off atomic rays which would kill the cancer cells.

New research, Bowers said, promises better methods of protecting humans against radiation from A-bombs.

One finding made at Utah's Radiobiological Laboratory is that the uptake of sodium, which is part of common table salt, is knocked down after exposure to X-rays from A-bomb radiation. By controlling better the foods and fluids given to A-bomb victims, more thousands of lives may someday be saved, he said.

Loudspeakers Tell Allied Soldiers Not to Stick Heads Out

Seoul, June 5 (AP)—The end of the Korean fighting appeared close today. A fateful truce meeting tomorrow could almost write an end to three years of war and death.

The Communists were reported to have submitted terms so close to those of the UN command that an armistice might be signed by June 25, third anniversary of this war that has already taken an awesome toll.

Minor details must be ironed out, but "peace fever" was in the air here as well as other allied capitals.

Warnings to Allies

Even the Reds were feeling it—Communist frontline loudspeakers broadcast warnings to allied troops: "Don't stick your heads out. There will be a truce in a few days."

A high U. S. official in Tokyo said an agreement to exchange prisoners likely will be signed Saturday. However, a truce could not be signed before next week, he added.

Allied and Red negotiators meet in the tiny hut in Panmunjom Saturday at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Friday EST).

However, there was one jarring and bitter dissent to the optimism. President Syngman Rhee's South Korean government stubbornly opposed the truce terms although Rhee has said he would co-operate "at any cost" with the U. S.

Goes to Seoul

Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, flew to Seoul from his Tokyo headquarters and conferred with Rhee, possibly in an eleventh-hour attempt to overcome the opposition of the aging, but fiery, president.

They talked for an hour but there was no announcement after the meeting. Pyun Yung Tai, South Korea's acting prime minister, and U. S. Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs were also present.

Clark flew back to Tokyo after the conference.

He refused to comment, saying only:

"All I can tell you is that I am going home."

However, a source close to the South Korean government said the meeting was not satisfactory to Rhee.

To Give Counter-Plan

Meanwhile, the South Korean government said it will make public Saturday its counter-plan for a Korean truce.

It said the plan was presented to President Eisenhower several days ago. Government sources said it was connected with an earlier four-point Rhee demand which asked:

A mutual security pact between the U. S. and South Korea, an increase of U. S. economic and military aid, withdrawal of Chinese and UN forces after a truce, and a pledge the U. S. or UN would not attempt to stop South Korea in any attempt to unify the country.

However, NBC correspondent Jim Robinson said in a broadcast from Korea today that Rhee told him South Korea would sign the present truce proposal "only because the U. S. forces us to."

Robinson said Rhee told him he pleaded with Clark against signing the proposal.

Heated Attack

Sucth Korea's bitter opposition to the UN proposal was pointed up by Pyun in a heated attack.

Pyun said angrily in an interview:

"I have never come across more dishonorable—and more cowardly—plans. We are greatly disgusted with such an ignominous truce."

He said war prisoners who refuse to return to communism would "commit suicide in disgust."

The violent South Korean opposition has worried allied leaders. The South Koreans have threatened to continue the fight if an armistice is signed on the present proposal and Pyun predicted bloodshed if some of its terms are enforced.

Clark Meets Leaders

He also conferred with Maj. Gen. Thomas Herren, commander of the Korean communications zone and the man in charge of allied-held prisoners.

The porspects for an imminent truce sprang from a still-officially-secret allied proposal made May 25 to settle the fate of 48,500 Chinese and North Korean POWs unwilling to return to their Red-ruled homelands.

It was heightened Thursday by a Communist reply which author-

Air Leader Says Slash Is Perilous

General Cites Lemay for Statement U. S. Security Could Be Damaged

Washington, June 5 (AP) — Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg told senators today the proposed air force cutback would reduce the strategic air command—intended to deliver global atomic attacks—below the limits of an acceptable "calculated risk."

The four-star air force chief read from a "top secret" cable by Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commander of the strategic air command, saying a proposed reduction below 57 wings would be "an extension of the calculated risk to a point where it made it no longer acceptable to the security of the United States and its allies."

The Senate Appropriations subcommittee, before which Vandenberg began his third day of testimony, had been told the cutting of the long range air force goal from 143 to 120 wings would hold the strategic air command to 25 wings.

Outspoken Critic

Vandenberg, who is retiring at the end of this month, has been outspoken in criticism of the Eisenhower administration plan to aim at a 120-wing force, with from 30 to 75 planes in a wing by December 1955. He contends the 143-wing goal set up under the Truman administration is the absolute minimum for safety, despite assurances from the President that the nation's actual air power will be maintained as needed.

Vandenberg said today he had received the secret cable from Lemay May 22 and that he was down-grading the secrecy classification so far as the part he read to the senators was concerned.

Would Restore Billions

Sen. Hill (D.-Ala.) said today he and some other senators will move to restore about four of the five billions cut from air force funds when the Eisenhower budget put its share at $11,700,000,000. On the other hand, Sen. Ferguson (R.-Mich.) said he expects Congress to follow the President, because "Eisenhower knows this picture."

Hearings are before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee headed by Ferguson, who is backing the reduced air force budget.

"The phrase '143-wing' has magic in it for some persons," Ferguson said in an interview. "Actually it's just a paper target. The reductions proposed mean no cut in real combat aircraft.

"Even if we gave them four or five billions additional they could not spend it in the next fiscal year. The air force had 25 billions to spend at start of this fiscal year just on aircraft and cannot spend more than five billions.

'Always Ask More'

"The President does not want Congress to appropriate more money than can be spent in a fiscal year," he added. "This is just part of the annual air force show. They always ask more than the President's budget and they never have been able to spend what they get."

Senate air force advocates have been pleased with Vandenberg's testimony that there is "no sound military reason" for the five billion dollar cutback.

Under questioning yesterday, Vandenberg said Soviet Russia has both an "offensive and defensive air force," that the cutback may reduce the number of modern aircraft this country can send to European allies; that a slowdown since the new administration took over already would delay the 143-wing program six months even if Congress provides additional funds; and that the cutback is "endangering national defenses."

Baby Goes on Honeymoon

Chicago, June 5 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. George McDaniel took along their baby granddaughter when they left for a California honeymoon after their marriage Thursday. McDaniel, 48, a railroad switchman, married his daughter's mother-in-law, Mrs. Marjorie Pfeiffer, 45, less than 24 hours after he obtained a divorce from Mrs. Patricia McDaniel, 48, of Milford, Del. They were married March 4, 1952, and separated five months later. McDaniel's daughter by an earlier marriage, Phoebe, is married to his new bride's son, James Pfeiffer. They are the parents of Colleen, 5 months, who is with her grandparents on their honeymoon.

Trainer Terrell Jacobs stood by as she and photographers entered the cage. Mrs. Nixon holds stick which is part of Jacobs' equipment. (AP Wirephoto).

Folsom Says Korea Truce Would Not Alter Tax Plea

House Group, However, Would Not Extend Profits Levy Past June 30 Date

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Undersecretary of the Treasury Marion B. Folsom said today a truce in Korea would make "no difference whatever" in the administration's plea for continued high taxes.

Prospects for an early end to the fighting, however, prompted strong demands from members of the House Ways and Means Committee for an end to any further thought of extending the excess profits tax beyond June 30 as asked by the Eisenhower administration.

At the same time, Folsom told the committee treasury officials put "no pressure whatever" on business friends to line up behind the President's request for a six months extension of the unpopular levy.

Sees No Violation

The undersecretary said he saw no possible violation of lobbying laws or anything improper at all in a series of conferences of Secretary Humphrey and other treasury officials with business leaders on the President's tax program. Testimony that such talks had been held set off accusations in the committee that they constituted at least improper efforts to influence Congress on legislation.

At any rate, their discussions with officials of two of the nation's biggest business groups, wrought little change in their opposition to extension of the tax.

Both the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce decided late yesterday to testify before the House Ways and Means Committee in opposition to the tax extension. They had planned to do so earlier, but cancelled their scheduled appearances and polled their governing boards on the issue after pleas from treasury officials.

Hopes for Neutrality

Humphrey told the committee Wednesday he merely outlined to these and other busines groups the administration's views and told them he hoped that if they could not agree, they would at least remain neutral.

But Rep. Mills (D.-Ark.) asserted that activities of treasury officials "may well" constitute a violation of lobbying law. Mills said treasury officials were obstructing the committee's search for full informaion by trying to

Rosenbergs Lose Anew

New York, June 5 (AP) — The U. S. Court of Appeals today denied a stay of execution to condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, scheduled to die in Sing Sing prison's electric chair June 18.

Judge Thomas E. Swan told their counsel, Emanuel Bloch, that he might apply for a stay before the Supreme Court of the United States. The court already has refused three times to review the case.

Bloch said several days ago if all else failed he would appeal to President Eisenhower for clemency. Eisenhower previously refused such a request.

Daley Says Spasm Shut Off Oxygen

Coroner Cites Pathologist in Death of Boy, 8; Conference Set

Athens, June 5 (AP) — Coroner Alton B. Daley said today a pathologist's report showed that Norman Starke, 8, died of a spasm of the larynx that shut off the boy's oxygen supply.

The boy's body was found last Friday night in a swimming hole a mile from his home in this Greene county village. No water was found in his lungs.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Starke, have asked for a complete investigation.

Form of Shock

Daley said the spasm was a form of shock and could have been caused either by fright or sudden contact with cold water.

The coroner said he had arranged a conference for next week with District Attorney Roy C. Moon of Catskill and State Police BCI Cpl. Fred Knight of Catskill, to decide the course of further investigation.

"All facts have not been gathered," Daley said, "and there are many loose ends which must be cleared up."

He did not elaborate.

Athens, Greece, June 5 (AP)—Athens was crippled today by a 24-hour strike of employes manning communications, water, gas, and street car utilities.

U. S. Pilots Bag Eight MIGs; ROKs Fight Hand to Hand

Seoul, June 5 (AP)—American Sabre jet pilots bagged eight Communist MIG jets, probably destroyed one and damaged five in air battles high over North Korea today.

Maj. Vermont Garrison of Tulsa became the war's 32nd jet ace by downing his fifth MIG, the air force said.

It was the second time this month Sabres and MIGs have tangled. One MIG was shot down and one damaged Tuesday.

On the ground, South Korean infantrymen fought with bayonets and grenades in an effort to win back allied outposts which the Reds may claim if an early armistice halts the bloody three-year-old war.

The tough ROKs were fighting hand-to-hand with Chinese and North Koreans at some points along the muddy east central and eastern fronts where bitter battles have raged all week.

Truce negotiators agreed in November, 1951 that the cease-fire demarcation line would be along a line of contact across Korea. Since then the main battle line has changed little, but in recent weeks the Reds have grabbed important outposts in the west and a number of advance allied positions in the center and on the eastern end of the line.

Observers said the Reds could be expected to claim the line of contact was south of allied outposts they have seized—outposts

Decision Is Studied on U. S. Policy

State Department Gives Thought to Basic Ways to Handle Red China After Armistice

Washington, June 5 (AP)—State and Defense Department officials drafted fresh instructions for UN truce negotiators today in apparent confidence that an agreement to end the Korean war will shortly be achieved.

State Department officials have under consideration, meanwhile, the formulation of a basic decision on what America's policy toward Red China should be—whether to try to encourage a split between the Chinese Red leadership and the Kremlin or whether to eliminate this as improbable and seek some other solution.

Indications were, that an announcement would be made in the near future.

Sharp Differences

There appeared to be sharp differences of opinion as to the best U. S. course. Some influential officials are taking the position that Chinese Natilonalist forces on Formosa must be maintained and made a rallying point for anti-Communist resistance throughout the Far East.

With truce negotiations scheduled to resume at Panmunjom tonight, Washington time, U. S. officials were more optimistic of quick, full agreement to end the war than they had been in more than a year.

A one day recess in the talks was requested by UN negotiators to give Washington and Allied governments time to study a statement of terms for breaking the prisoner of war deadlock which the Reds submitted Wednesday.

The Red terms were received in Washington yesterday morning. Well informed reports were that they were extremely close to proposals submitted by the UN command on May 25.

Allies Called In

Representatives of 16 allied governments with forces in Korea were called in yesterday afternoon by the State Department, briefed on the Red terms and given opportunity for overnight consultation with their home governments.

The biggest worry of some key authorities here was what President Syngman Rhee would actually do about observing a truce. After some of his officials had threatened to pull out of the UN command and fight on alone, Rhee said a few days ago his government would of course cooperate with the U. S. and would look to it to unify Korea eventually.

However, the State Department was reported to be without official assurances on that point and some of Rhee's associates were still rumbling threats of opposition to any truce that would leave Korea divided.

The great armistice issue awaiting final resolution between the UN command and the Communists is the disposition of 48,500 prisoners of war who say they do not want to go home when the fighting ends. The UN has insisted they must have freedom to refuse Communist repatriation. Until recently the Reds had contended all must go home.

Taft Requests Alliance With Britain to Stop UN Pacific Area Veto

Senate Leader Clarifies His May 26 Views and Says Truce Would Put Him Back With Eisenhower in Far East Views

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) called today for a military alliance with the British in the Pacific to bypass the United Nations veto in that critical world area.

The Senate GOP leader issued a statement clarifying the views he expressed in a Cincinnati speech May 26 which caused President Eisenhower to say "no," that he couldn't agree with Taft that the U. S. "might as well forget the United Nations so far as the Korean War is concerned" if efforts to obtain an armistice fail.

Court of Appeals Sustains Validity Of Fiscal Measure

Take-It-or-Leave-It Plan for Manhattan Passes by Vote of 6 to 1

Albany, June 5 (AP)—The Court of Appeals today upheld by a 6-1 vote the constitutionality of the Dewey administration's take-it-or-leave-it fiscal program for New York city.

In a per curiam (by the court) opinion, the state's highest court wrote that "we can not say that the legislation on its face is unconstitutional."

Associate Judge Marvin R. Dye dissented. He said in a minority opinion that the legislation infringed on home rule.

Last Legal Chance

The court's decision stripped Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's administration of its last legal chance to throw out the drastic "package" legislation drawn by Gov. Dewey and his financial advisers to bail the city out of the red.

The key point in the Dewey program required the city to turn over its debt-plagued subway and bus systems to a transit authority that had the power to raise the 10-cent fare.

If this were not done, the city would lose the right to boost its real estate taxes by 50 million dollars, the legislation provided.

Door Not Closed

The Court of Appeals, in upholding lower court decisions on the program's constitutionality, did not close the door to possible future litigation arising from the application of the legislation.

The court said:

"Whether statutes will be constitutionally applied, or whether other constitutional questions not now foreseeable will arise, we cannot know in advance. Such problems, if any, must be dealt with when presented."

Permissive Legislation

The court pointed out that the legislation was permissive.

In a three-hour argument before the Court of Appeals last Friday, the city contended the Dewey program violated the home-rule provision.

The state argued that the Public Transit Authority was "the only answer" to the city's program of financing a 50-million-dollar-a-year transit operating deficit.

Justice Benjamin F. Schreiber of State Supreme Court upheld the

(AP Science Reporter)

New York, June 5 (AP)—Atomic energy already has saved many times more lives than the 80,000 lost by atomic bombs exploded over Japan, Dr. John Z. Bowers said today.

The life-saving has come through use of radioactive atoms in medicine, Bowers, dean and professor of radiobiology, University of Utah College of Medicine, told the American Medical Association (AMA).

In a speech prepared for the closing session of the AMA convention, Bowers gave some examples of how atomic energy has quietly been saving lives:

Radioactive atoms, which can be traced wherever they go, are in effect making the human body transparent. Doctors can learn where drugs go, how drugs do their good work. They can learn how glands work, even what part of living cells do the work which saves or preserves health.

Mysteries of the adrenal glands are being solved with the aid of radioactive atoms. This has aided in treatments of rheumatoid arthritis, and rheumatic fever, the great heart-killer among children.

Radioactive iodine is helping in treating diseases, including cancer of the thyroid gland, Bowers continued. And there are hopes that cancers elsewhere in the body can be treated by finding chemicals which will go just to those cancers. Those chemicals could be made radioactive, to go to the cancers and then give off atomic rays which would kill the cancer cells.

New research, Bowers said, promises better methods of protecting humans against radiation from A-bombs.

One finding made at Utah's Radiobiological Laboratory is that the uptake of sodium, which is part of common table salt, is knocked down after exposure to X-rays from A-bomb radiation. By controlling better the foods and fluids given to A-bomb victims, more thousands of lives may someday be saved, he said.

Loudspeakers Tell Allied Soldiers Not to Stick Heads Out

Seoul, June 5 (AP)—The end of the Korean fighting appeared close today. A fateful truce meeting tomorrow could almost write an end to three years of war and death.

The Communists were reported to have submitted terms so close to those of the UN command that an armistice might be signed by June 25, third anniversary of this war that has already taken an awesome toll.

Minor details must be ironed out, but "peace fever" was in the air here as well as other allied capitals.

Warnings to Allies

Even the Reds were feeling it—Communist frontline loudspeakers broadcast warnings to allied troops: "Don't stick your heads out. There will be a truce in a few days."

A high U. S. official in Tokyo said an agreement to exchange prisoners likely will be signed Saturday. However, a truce could not be signed before next week, he added.

Allied and Red negotiators meet in the tiny hut in Panmunjom Saturday at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Friday EST).

However, there was one jarring and bitter dissent to the optimism. President Syngman Rhee's South Korean government stubbornly opposed the truce terms although Rhee has said he would co-operate "at any cost" with the U. S.

Goes to Seoul

Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, flew to Seoul from his Tokyo headquarters and conferred with Rhee, possibly in an eleventh-hour attempt to overcome the opposition of the aging, but fiery, president.

They talked for an hour but there was no announcement after the meeting. Pyun Yung Tai, South Korea's acting prime minister, and U. S. Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs were also present.

Clark flew back to Tokyo after the conference.

He refused to comment, saying only:

"All I can tell you is that I am going home."

However, a source close to the South Korean government said the meeting was not satisfactory to Rhee.

To Give Counter-Plan

Meanwhile, the South Korean government said it will make public Saturday its counter-plan for a Korean truce.

It said the plan was presented to President Eisenhower several days ago. Government sources said it was connected with an earlier four-point Rhee demand which asked:

A mutual security pact between the U. S. and South Korea, an increase of U. S. economic and military aid, withdrawal of Chinese and UN forces after a truce, and a pledge the U. S. or UN would not attempt to stop South Korea in any attempt to unify the country.

However, NBC correspondent Jim Robinson said in a broadcast from Korea today that Rhee told him South Korea would sign the present truce proposal "only because the U. S. forces us to."

Robinson said Rhee told him he pleaded with Clark against signing the proposal.

Heated Attack

Sucth Korea's bitter opposition to the UN proposal was pointed up by Pyun in a heated attack.

Pyun said angrily in an interview:

"I have never come across more dishonorable—and more cowardly—plans. We are greatly disgusted with such an ignominous truce."

He said war prisoners who refuse to return to communism would "commit suicide in disgust."

The violent South Korean opposition has worried allied leaders. The South Koreans have threatened to continue the fight if an armistice is signed on the present proposal and Pyun predicted bloodshed if some of its terms are enforced.

Clark Meets Leaders

He also conferred with Maj. Gen. Thomas Herren, commander of the Korean communications zone and the man in charge of allied-held prisoners.

The porspects for an imminent truce sprang from a still-officially-secret allied proposal made May 25 to settle the fate of 48,500 Chinese and North Korean POWs unwilling to return to their Red-ruled homelands.

It was heightened Thursday by a Communist reply which author-

General Cites Lemay for Statement U. S. Security Could Be Damaged

Washington, June 5 (AP) — Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg told senators today the proposed air force cutback would reduce the strategic air command—intended to deliver global atomic attacks—below the limits of an acceptable "calculated risk."

The four-star air force chief read from a "top secret" cable by Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commander of the strategic air command, saying a proposed reduction below 57 wings would be "an extension of the calculated risk to a point where it made it no longer acceptable to the security of the United States and its allies."

The Senate Appropriations subcommittee, before which Vandenberg began his third day of testimony, had been told the cutting of the long range air force goal from 143 to 120 wings would hold the strategic air command to 25 wings.

Outspoken Critic

Vandenberg, who is retiring at the end of this month, has been outspoken in criticism of the Eisenhower administration plan to aim at a 120-wing force, with from 30 to 75 planes in a wing by December 1955. He contends the 143-wing goal set up under the Truman administration is the absolute minimum for safety, despite assurances from the President that the nation's actual air power will be maintained as needed.

Vandenberg said today he had received the secret cable from Lemay May 22 and that he was down-grading the secrecy classification so far as the part he read to the senators was concerned.

Would Restore Billions

Sen. Hill (D.-Ala.) said today he and some other senators will move to restore about four of the five billions cut from air force funds when the Eisenhower budget put its share at $11,700,000,000. On the other hand, Sen. Ferguson (R.-Mich.) said he expects Congress to follow the President, because "Eisenhower knows this picture."

Hearings are before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee headed by Ferguson, who is backing the reduced air force budget.

"The phrase '143-wing' has magic in it for some persons," Ferguson said in an interview. "Actually it's just a paper target. The reductions proposed mean no cut in real combat aircraft.

"Even if we gave them four or five billions additional they could not spend it in the next fiscal year. The air force had 25 billions to spend at start of this fiscal year just on aircraft and cannot spend more than five billions.

'Always Ask More'

"The President does not want Congress to appropriate more money than can be spent in a fiscal year," he added. "This is just part of the annual air force show. They always ask more than the President's budget and they never have been able to spend what they get."

Senate air force advocates have been pleased with Vandenberg's testimony that there is "no sound military reason" for the five billion dollar cutback.

Under questioning yesterday, Vandenberg said Soviet Russia has both an "offensive and defensive air force," that the cutback may reduce the number of modern aircraft this country can send to European allies; that a slowdown since the new administration took over already would delay the 143-wing program six months even if Congress provides additional funds; and that the cutback is "endangering national defenses."

Baby Goes on Honeymoon

Chicago, June 5 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. George McDaniel took along their baby granddaughter when they left for a California honeymoon after their marriage Thursday. McDaniel, 48, a railroad switchman, married his daughter's mother-in-law, Mrs. Marjorie Pfeiffer, 45, less than 24 hours after he obtained a divorce from Mrs. Patricia McDaniel, 48, of Milford, Del. They were married March 4, 1952, and separated five months later. McDaniel's daughter by an earlier marriage, Phoebe, is married to his new bride's son, James Pfeiffer. They are the parents of Colleen, 5 months, who is with her grandparents on their honeymoon.

Sheba Meets Mrs. Nixon

Mrs. Richard Nixon, wife of the U. S. Vice President, determined to duplicate her husband's feat, appears a bit doubtful but stares right at "Sheba." She was lunching in another part of Washington hotel when she heard her husband was initiated into Circus Saints and Sinners club by entering a circus lion's cage. Trainer Terrell Jacobs stood by as she and photographers entered the cage. Mrs. Nixon holds stick which is part of Jacobs' equipment. (AP Wirephoto).

Folsom Says Korea Truce Would Not Alter Tax Plea

House Group, However, Would Not Extend Profits Levy Past June 30 Date

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Undersecretary of the Treasury Marion B. Folsom said today a truce in Korea would make "no difference whatever" in the administration's plea for continued high taxes.

Prospects for an early end to the fighting, however, prompted strong demands from members of the House Ways and Means Committee for an end to any further thought of extending the excess profits tax beyond June 30 as asked by the Eisenhower administration.

At the same time, Folsom told the committee treasury officials put "no pressure whatever" on business friends to line up behind the President's request for a six months extension of the unpopular levy.

Sees No Violation

The undersecretary said he saw no possible violation of lobbying laws or anything improper at all in a series of conferences of Secretary Humphrey and other treasury officials with business leaders on the President's tax program. Testimony that such talks had been held set off accusations in the committee that they constituted at least improper efforts to influence Congress on legislation.

At any rate, their discussions with officials of two of the nation's biggest business groups, wrought little change in their opposition to extension of the tax.

Both the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce decided late yesterday to testify before the House Ways and Means Committee in opposition to the tax extension. They had planned to do so earlier, but cancelled their scheduled appearances and polled their governing boards on the issue after pleas from treasury officials.

Hopes for Neutrality

Humphrey told the committee Wednesday he merely outlined to these and other busines groups the administration's views and told them he hoped that if they could not agree, they would at least remain neutral.

But Rep. Mills (D.-Ark.) asserted that activities of treasury officials "may well" constitute a violation of lobbying law. Mills said treasury officials were obstructing the committee's search for full informaion by trying to

Stay Is Denied

Rosenbergs Lose Anew

New York, June 5 (AP) — The U. S. Court of Appeals today denied a stay of execution to condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, scheduled to die in Sing Sing prison's electric chair June 18.

Judge Thomas E. Swan told their counsel, Emanuel Bloch, that he might apply for a stay before the Supreme Court of the United States. The court already has refused three times to review the case.

Bloch said several days ago if all else failed he would appeal to President Eisenhower for clemency. Eisenhower previously refused such a request.

Daley Says Spasm Shut Off Oxygen

Coroner Cites Pathologist in Death of Boy, 8; Conference Set

Athens, June 5 (AP) — Coroner Alton B. Daley said today a pathologist's report showed that Norman Starke, 8, died of a spasm of the larynx that shut off the boy's oxygen supply.

The boy's body was found last Friday night in a swimming hole a mile from his home in this Greene county village. No water was found in his lungs.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Starke, have asked for a complete investigation.

Form of Shock

Daley said the spasm was a form of shock and could have been caused either by fright or sudden contact with cold water.

The coroner said he had arranged a conference for next week with District Attorney Roy C. Moon of Catskill and State Police BCI Cpl. Fred Knight of Catskill, to decide the course of further investigation.

"All facts have not been gathered," Daley said, "and there are many loose ends which must be cleared up."

He did not elaborate.

U. S. Pilots Bag Eight MIGs; ROKs Fight Hand to Hand

Seoul, June 5 (AP)—American Sabre jet pilots bagged eight Communist MIG jets, probably destroyed one and damaged five in air battles high over North Korea today.

Maj. Vermont Garrison of Tulsa became the war's 32nd jet ace by downing his fifth MIG, the air force said.

It was the second time this month Sabres and MIGs have tangled. One MIG was shot down and one damaged Tuesday.

On the ground, South Korean infantrymen fought with bayonets and grenades in an effort to win back allied outposts which the Reds may claim if an early armistice halts the bloody three-year-old war.

The tough ROKs were fighting hand-to-hand with Chinese and North Koreans at some points along the muddy east central and eastern fronts where bitter battles have raged all week.

Truce negotiators agreed in November, 1951 that the cease-fire demarcation line would be along a line of contact across Korea. Since then the main battle line has changed little, but in recent weeks the Reds have grabbed important outposts in the west and a number of advance allied positions in the center and on the eastern end of the line.

Observers said the Reds could be expected to claim the line of contact was south of allied outposts they have seized—outposts

Decision Is Studied on U. S. Policy

State Department Gives Thought to Basic Ways to Handle Red China After Armistice

Washington, June 5 (AP)—State and Defense Department officials drafted fresh instructions for UN truce negotiators today in apparent confidence that an agreement to end the Korean war will shortly be achieved.

State Department officials have under consideration, meanwhile, the formulation of a basic decision on what America's policy toward Red China should be—whether to try to encourage a split between the Chinese Red leadership and the Kremlin or whether to eliminate this as improbable and seek some other solution.

Indications were, that an announcement would be made in the near future.

Sharp Differences

There appeared to be sharp differences of opinion as to the best U. S. course. Some influential officials are taking the position that Chinese Natilonalist forces on Formosa must be maintained and made a rallying point for anti-Communist resistance throughout the Far East.

With truce negotiations scheduled to resume at Panmunjom tonight, Washington time, U. S. officials were more optimistic of quick, full agreement to end the war than they had been in more than a year.

A one day recess in the talks was requested by UN negotiators to give Washington and Allied governments time to study a statement of terms for breaking the prisoner of war deadlock which the Reds submitted Wednesday.

The Red terms were received in Washington yesterday morning. Well informed reports were that they were extremely close to proposals submitted by the UN command on May 25.

Allies Called In

Representatives of 16 allied governments with forces in Korea were called in yesterday afternoon by the State Department, briefed on the Red terms and given opportunity for overnight consultation with their home governments.

The biggest worry of some key authorities here was what President Syngman Rhee would actually do about observing a truce. After some of his officials had threatened to pull out of the UN command and fight on alone, Rhee said a few days ago his government would of course cooperate with the U. S. and would look to it to unify Korea eventually.

However, the State Department was reported to be without official assurances on that point and some of Rhee's associates were still rumbling threats of opposition to any truce that would leave Korea divided.

The great armistice issue awaiting final resolution between the UN command and the Communists is the disposition of 48,500 prisoners of war who say they do not want to go home when the fighting ends. The UN has insisted they must have freedom to refuse Communist repatriation. Until recently the Reds had contended all must go home.

Denver, June 5 (AP)—Richard Garcia, 15, had lived at St. Clara's Orphanage the past 10 years. His mother, Mrs. Helen Bowers of Los Angeles, remarried recently and was planning to take Richard to California this summer to live with her. Yesterday Richard and five companions were swimming at an amusement park pool. They were ready to leave when Richard said he wanted to make one more dive. He didn't come up. Another swimmer found his body on the pool floor.

Vincent Gets 30 Days; Out Pending Appeal Decision

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today sentenced Robert Vincent, 52, of 14 Terrence street, who was convicted last week on a gambling charge, to 30 days in the county jail. He was released pending decision on an appeal.

Vincent was among several men arrested following a raid April 29 at 650 Broadway, and was found guilty by a city court jury following trial last week. He was arrested on a charge dealing with the rental of space for gambling purposes.

Doctor Gives Opinion

Vincent had been granted a postponement in court because of illness and his sentencing was put over until today to allow time for examination by doctors. A report, following the examination, indicated that it was safe to impose the sentence today.

Peter Cerasaro, 35, of Lucas avenue extension, was previously sentenced to 30 days, following trial, on the same charge.

Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, who appeared for Vincent filed an appeal, which, he said, was based on "the introduction of evidence not binding on my client, and admission of the same as evidence over my objection."

Vincent Bail Is $250

Vincent was released under $250 bail on an order signed by County Judge John M. Cashin.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John appeared for The People.

Matthew Reynolds, 66, of 31 Ravine street, one of the men arrested on a charge dealing with the keeping or operating of books, last Monday changed a former plea of innocent to one of guilty, was fined $100 and given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail.

Sickler Case June 8

Leonard Sickler, Jr., 25, of 22 Maiden Lane, who was arrested on the same charge as Reynolds, is due to appear before Judge Mino June 8.

The gambling raid led to arrest of others on the lesser charge of disorderly conduct dealing with the frequenting of places where gambling is permitted, and those cases have been disposed of. One of them, Arthur Elting, 38, of 75 Plymouth avenue, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but was later released pending decision of an appeal by his attorney, Charles Gaffney.

State police said Suligowski was thrown from his car when it skidded and struck a bridge railing. Dr. Anthony Morreale, acting as coroner's examiner, said the death was caused by a fractured skull and possible internal injuries.

The children's choir sang "Pie Jesu Domonie" during the Mass at the Offertory and following the last blessing they sang "In Paradisem." During the bereavement hundreds called at the chapel to express words of sympathy to the family and to offer prayers in her behalf. Among those was the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Stephen P. Connelly who led in the recitation of the Holy Rosary at 8 p. m. Thursday evening. The Rev. Joseph Comyns and the Rev. Father Simmons also recited prayers for the dead. Chinese and North Koreans Thursday hurled back six of seven South Korean counter-attacks in central and eastern Korea and in at least two sectors grabbed additional territory.

North and South Koreans were reported locked in combat again today near the crest of Anchor Hill on the extreme eastern end of the line.

Incomplete reports to Eighth Army headquarters said soldiers of the 15th ROK Division clawed their way back to the crest of the key hill. There was no claim that the peak was again in allied hands.

Troops of two south Korean divisions beat off two Chinese Red probing attacks on the battered east-central front.

Sewer Breaks Halt Street Repair Work

The city's street repair program is being hampered by a series of sewer line breaks, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk said today.

Following a series of breaks several days ago in various parts of the city, another was discovered today on St. James street near Broadway.

Men of the public works department are kept so busy repairing sewers, the mayor said, that it is impossible to get ahead with the street repair work. Only one street repair crew is now at work, and they are repairing a section of Albany avenue.

The other sewer breaks occurred on Broadway near West Chestnut street, on Broadway near Rogers street, on Union street off Broadway, and on O'Neil street.

The break just beyond the top of the Broadway hill is in an old sewer line of brick construction.

Reported Provisions

The plan, as it stands with Communist revisions, is reported to provide:

1. Immediate exchange of prisoners who want to go home.

2. Assignment to custody of a five-member neutral nations repatriation commission in South Korea the 48,500 Communist prisoners refusing to return home.

3. Communist representatives would be allowed to visit them for 120 days and give "explanations" and "assurances" about returning to North Korea or Red China.

4. Disposition of prisoners still resisting repatriation would be referred to a post-armistice political conference.

On this point, the Allied plan further provided that should the political conference fail to settle the problem, it would be referred to the UN General Assembly. The Communist reply called for the UN to drop the assembly provision.

Would Name Agent

Another point of difference is that the Red proposal would name India executive agent of the five-nation neutral commission as well as chairman. The UN plan had just called for India to be chairman.

Other nations nominated for the commission are Sweden, Switzerland, and Communist satellites Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Under the plan, only India would send troops — reportedly 1,000—to guard the prisoners.

Pyun warned that South Korea will not allow Indian troops to guard the prisoners nor allow the Communists to send representatives into the republic.

Anticipates Bloodshed

"There will be bloodshed, no doubt about that," Pyun told Associated Press reporter Bill Shinn. Pyun made the statement Thursday after he conferred with Rhee.

The meeting scheduled for Saturday could produce the climatic moment in the prolonged talks.

Initially, the session will continue in the secrecy that covered discussions of the meeting a week ago Monday and again Thursday.

But the possibility arose that both sides now were ready to lift secrecy and make public the official terms.

A South Korean source said a general review of the other armistice terms would follow a final agreement on the troublesome prisoner repatriation issue.

Drawn Up in 1951

A line which coincided with the battleline was drawn up in November, 1951, and since then there has been little change, although the Communists have captured a series of allied posts in recent weeks. The battle line still conforms generally to the 1951 line.

A truce now would leave Korea divided roughly along the 38th Parallel, the old political boundary created after World War 2.

Rhee has demanded that unification of Korea and withdrawal of Chinese Communist forces be made part of the truce.

The UN command has proceeded in the negotiations on the assumption that these and other matters would be referred to a political conference after an armistice.

Only this week, Rhee said that to leave the Red Chinese on Korean soil would amount to a "death sentence" for South Korea.

But Rhee also intimated that he would reluctantly accept a truce and not fight on alone as his government leaders have threatened.

Meanwhile, in London, prime ministers of nine British commonwealth states agreed the allies should try to meet the Red objection to the UN Assembly having ultimate jurisdiction over balking prisoners.

They were reported to have considered Red China's difficulty in accepting the proposal since the Communist nation is not a UN member.

Butter Price Is Dropped 24 Cents In N. Y. Market

New York, June 5 (AP) — The price of butter was slashed 24 cents a pound—from 79 cents to 55 cents—in a market here today as a form of criticism of government price supports and surpluses.

The one day sale price was arranged by Albert Lowenfels, president of the Hotel Bar Butter Company, and Patsy D'Agostino, co-owner of the D'Agostino Brother Supermarket.

Lowenfels said they wanted to prove that price supports have forced a big drop in butter consumption and that a free market would virtually double present sales.

He said annual per capita consumption of butter since the war had dropped from 17 pounds to less than nine, while less expensive oleomargarine has increased from 2.5 pounds to almost eight.

All Buy It

D'Agostino reported that normally many customers did not buy butter, but that today everyone entering the store was buying it, although there were no lines forming. Sales at the reduced price were limited to one pound a person.

Butter now is selling wholesale here at 66 cents a pound, which meant the experiments were taking at least an 11 cent loss on each pound sold. They said they believed the loss worthwhile "in the public interest" to prove that lower prices would increase sales.

Lowenfels said the government could drop price supports and still protect the producers by paying to farmers a differential between the market price and a fair return to the farmers.

He declared that while high prices were keeping many customers from buying butter, the government bought 67,450,000 pounds in April and May. This is accumulating in cold storage warehouses with storage costs mounting, he said.

Vincent Gets 30 Days; Out Pending Appeal Decision

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today sentenced Robert Vincent, 52, of 14 Terrence street, who was convicted last week on a gambling charge, to 30 days in the county jail. He was released pending decision on an appeal.

Vincent was among several men arrested following a raid April 29 at 650 Broadway, and was found guilty by a city court jury following trial last week. He was arrested on a charge dealing with the rental of space for gambling purposes.

Doctor Gives Opinion

Vincent had been granted a postponement in court because of illness and his sentencing was put over until today to allow time for examination by doctors. A report, following the examination, indicated that it was safe to impose the sentence today.

Peter Cerasaro, 35, of Lucas avenue extension, was previously sentenced to 30 days, following trial, on the same charge.

Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, who appeared for Vincent filed an appeal, which, he said, was based on "the introduction of evidence not binding on my client, and admission of the same as evidence over my objection."

Vincent Bail Is $250

Vincent was released under $250 bail on an order signed by County Judge John M. Cashin.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John appeared for The People.

Matthew Reynolds, 66, of 31 Ravine street, one of the men arrested on a charge dealing with the keeping or operating of books, last Monday changed a former plea of innocent to one of guilty, was fined $100 and given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail.

Sickler Case June 8

Leonard Sickler, Jr., 25, of 22 Maiden Lane, who was arrested on the same charge as Reynolds, is due to appear before Judge Mino June 8.

The gambling raid led to arrest of others on the lesser charge of disorderly conduct dealing with the frequenting of places where gambling is permitted, and those cases have been disposed of. One of them, Arthur Elting, 38, of 75 Plymouth avenue, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but was later released pending decision of an appeal by his attorney, Charles Gaffney.

which in many cases guard the main UN line.

Chinese and North Koreans Thursday hurled back six of seven South Korean counter-attacks in central and eastern Korea and in at least two sectors grabbed additional territory.

North and South Koreans were reported locked in combat again today near the crest of Anchor Hill on the extreme eastern end of the line.

Incomplete reports to Eighth Army headquarters said soldiers of the 15th ROK Division clawed their way back to the crest of the key hill. There was no claim that the peak was again in allied hands.

Troops of two south Korean divisions beat off two Chinese Red probing attacks on the battered east-central front.

Andrei A. Gretshko has been appointed to command the 300,000 man Red army in East Germany. Chuikov was relieved of his political responsibilities on May 28 with the appointment of Vladimir Semyenov as high commissioner for the Soviet zone.

Sewer Breaks Halt Street Repair Work

The city's street repair program is being hampered by a series of sewer line breaks, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk said today.

Following a series of breaks several days ago in various parts of the city, another was discovered today on St. James street near Broadway.

Men of the public works department are kept so busy repairing sewers, the mayor said, that it is impossible to get ahead with the street repair work. Only one street repair crew is now at work, and they are repairing a section of Albany avenue.

The other sewer breaks occurred on Broadway near West Chestnut street, on Broadway near Rogers street, on Union street off Broadway, and on O'Neil street.

The break just beyond the top of the Broadway hill is in an old sewer line of brick construction.

Two Ships Collide

Messina, Sicily, June 5 (AP)—An American freighter and a Norwegian tanker collided in the Strait of Messina today and exploded in flames. All crewmen escaped injury and both vessels were towed into port here after the fires were put out. The collision, shortly after midnight, entangled the 7,606-ton American Export Lines ship Exmouth and the 9,938-ton tanker Pericles. Tugs pulled them apart. The Exmouth suffered a smashed bow. The Pericles had a 50-foot gash in her side.

itative sources here and in Washington considered so close to the Allied terms as to amount to virtual acceptance.

Reported Provisions

The plan, as it stands with Communist revisions, is reported to provide:

1. Immediate exchange of prisoners who want to go home.

2. Assignment to custody of a five-member neutral nations repatriation commission in South Korea the 48,500 Communist prisoners refusing to return home.

3. Communist representatives would be allowed to visit them for 120 days and give "explanations" and "assurances" about returning to North Korea or Red China.

4. Disposition of prisoners still resisting repatriation would be referred to a post-armistice political conference.

On this point, the Allied plan further provided that should the political conference fail to settle the problem, it would be referred to the UN General Assembly. The Communist reply called for the UN to drop the assembly provision.

Would Name Agent

Another point of difference is that the Red proposal would name India executive agent of the five-nation neutral commission as well as chairman. The UN plan had just called for India to be chairman.

Other nations nominated for the commission are Sweden, Switzerland, and Communist satellites Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Under the plan, only India would send troops — reportedly 1,000—to guard the prisoners.

Pyun warned that South Korea will not allow Indian troops to guard the prisoners nor allow the Communists to send representatives into the republic.

Anticipates Bloodshed

"There will be bloodshed, no doubt about that," Pyun told Associated Press reporter Bill Shinn. Pyun made the statement Thursday after he conferred with Rhee.

The meeting scheduled for Saturday could produce the climatic moment in the prolonged talks.

Initially, the session will continue in the secrecy that covered discussions of the meeting a week ago Monday and again Thursday.

But the possibilty arose that both sides now were ready to lift secrecy and make public the official terms.

A South Korean source said a general review of the other armistice terms would follow a final agreement on the troublesome prisoner repatriation issue.

The focal point of such a review would be a possible revision of the Demarcation Line that will separate the opposing armies during a truce.

Drawn Up in 1951

A line which coincided with the battleline was drawn up in November, 1951, and since then there has been little change, although the Communists have captured a series of allied posts in recent weeks. The battle line still conforms generally to the 1951 line.

A truce now would leave Korea divided roughly along the 38th Parallel, the old political boundary created after World War 2.

Rhee has demanded that unification of Korea and withdrawal of Chinese Communist forces be made part of the truce.

The UN command has proceeded in the negotiations on the assumption that these and other matters would be referred to a political conference after an armistice.

Only this week, Rhee said that to leave the Red Chinese on Korean soil would amount to a "death sentence" for South Korea.

But Rhee also intimated that he would reluctantly accept a truce and not fight on alone as his government leaders have threatened.

Meanwhile, in London, prime ministers of nine British commonwealth states agreed the allies should try to meet the Red objection to the UN Assembly having ultimate jurisdiction over balking prisoners.

They were reported to have considered Red China's difficulty in accepting the proposal since the Communist nation is not a UN member.

Butter Price Is Dropped 24 Cents In N. Y. Market

New York, June 5 (AP) — The price of butter was slashed 24 cents a pound—from 79 cents to 55 cents—in a market here today as a form of criticism of government price supports and surpluses.

The one day sale price was arranged by Albert Lowenfels, president of the Hotel Bar Butter Company, and Patsy D'Agostino, co-owner of the D'Agostino Brother Supermarket.

Lowenfels said they wanted to prove that price supports have forced a big drop in butter consumption and that a free market would virtually double present sales.

He said annual per capita consumption of butter since the war had dropped from 17 pounds to less than nine, while less expensive oleomargarine has increased from 2.5 pounds to almost eight.

All Buy It

D'Agostino reported that normally many customers did not buy butter, but that today everyone entering the store was buying it, although there were no lines forming. Sales at the reduced price were limited to one pound a person.

Butter now is selling wholesale here at 66 cents a pound, which meant the experiments were taking at least an 11 cent loss on each pound sold. They said they believed the loss worthwhile "in the public interest" to prove that lower prices would increase sales.

Lowenfels said the government could drop price supports and still protect the producers by paying to farmers a differential between the market price and a fair return to the farmers.

He declared that while high prices were keeping many customers from buying butter, the government bought 67,450,000 pounds in April and May. This is accumulating in cold storage warehouses with storage costs mounting, he said.

Woman Goes to Hospital

New York, June 5 (AP)—Bridget Strong, 25-year-old brunette, said by police to be a divorcee and reported to be a dancer, was taken to Roosevelt Hospital suffering from an overdose of sleeping pills today police reported. Police said Miss Strong, a resident of the Blackstone Hotel, 50 East 58th street, was transferred later to Bellevue Hospital. Her condition was good.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

By MRS. WILLIAM JAY

PFO Elects New Officers for Year

New Paltz, June 5—Mrs. Albert S. Kerr was elected president of the Parent-Faculty Organization at a recent meeting.

Others elected were Mrs. Laurin Abrams, Mrs. Robert Pyle, vice presidents; Mrs. Victor Landau, secretary; Mrs. A. Stephen Tenedini, communicating secretary and Robert Glans, treasurer.

Mrs. Keith Smiley, reporting on the Campus School Board, said that it had been having joint meetings with the district Board of Education. She also announced that the Campus School staff is complete for next year, and that an over-all policy of heterogeneous grouping had been adopted for the school. Dr. Thomas then explained the two systems widely used in making up school classes or groups — homogeneous and heterogeneous. He added that the children would know at the end of this term in which classes they will be in the fall.

Mrs. Henry Barg, chairman of the Health and Safety Committee, reported that there will be announcements in the local press concerning the proposed poison-ivy control program. She wishes that people interested in using the equipment would get in touch with her (phone 8325 in the evenings).

The Planning Board voted $25 to cover the cost of mimeograph paper needed for the parent bulletin next year.

Mr. Nasser presented a first draft of the orientation booklet Meet New Paltz, compiled by a committee of faculty and parents for distribution to newcomers in the community. It was voted to allot sufficient funds to the committee to mimeograph the booklet on good paper.

Reports on Reorganization

Mrs. Albert Kerr then presented the report of the special committee on the reorganization of the Parent-Faculty Organization. Concerning the basic structure of the organization it was recommended that first, the entire membership of the Parent-Faculty Organization, which shall include all parents and all faculty of the Campus School, shall have the final authority to determine basic policy, elect officers, and pass on actions of the Executive Committee; second, that the administration and detailed work shall be the responsibility of the Executive Committee; and third, that the Planning Board shall be abolished.

The Executive Committee shall be expanded to include the officers elected by the entire organization and the past chairman; the faculty representatives (5, chosen by the faculty) and the principal; chairmen of all standing committees; delegates of the Home Room Representatives. There will be four such delegates, one from the nursery-kindergarten division, one from the primary grades 1, 2, 3; one from the intermediate grades 4, 5, 6; and one from the upper grades 7, 8. The second vice president shall be designated in charge of Room Representatives.

It was recommended that the following standing committees be continued or set up: Program, Budget, Ways and Means, Public Relations (which includes publicity, bulletins, posters and bulletin board), Health and Safety, Research, Resources, and Refreshments. Three special committees should cover Constitution and By-laws, Book Fair, and All-School Family Night.

There shall be at least one (preferably two) meetings within each grade, and at least three all-school meetings during the year. The programs shall be varied; and refreshments and a social hour shall be part of most all school meetings.

It is tentatively suggested that there be two or three room representatives for each classroom. They shall be chosen by the delegates of the room representatives in cooperation with the teacher, use being made of the nominations already sent in by the parents.

School Corner

Placing of Pupils

New Paltz, June 5—A general policy of pupil placement and room assignment on a heterogenious basis has been formulated for the Campus School.

This means, it was explained, that representative groups are the aim of the principal and staff. Every effort is made to achieve balance and equal distribution in each classroom, it was said.

Parents are sometimes asked to help in making decisions in placement if their children are having difficulty in social, academic or emotional growth. They are asked not to request preferential placement for their children, however.

Work With Raffia

For some time students of Mrs. Mary O'Donnell's fifth grade have been working with raffia. On one wall of their room is a bright display of mats the children have woven, and carefully-fashioned baskets of this material can be seen.

This class has also been working with papier mache, and their parents are urged to visit and see the huge masks and bowls they have made.

Holds Reading Clinics

This year, Dr. George Bond has been directing a special reading clinic to help those students who have been finding it difficult to keep up with others in their class or who have particular reading problems. Out of the 30 children who have taken part in this program, Dr. Bond reports that 25 per cent have caught up completely and that all the others have shown great improvement. He hopes to continue with these children and greatly expand the program next year.

Nursery School Closes

The three and four-year-old nursery school groups will meet for the last time today, June 5, because of the end of the college year which makes it impossible to obtain further student help. The three-year-old group held its farewell picnic yesterday to which parents and younger brothers and sisters were invited.

Dr. Pope has served in the Industrial Relations Division of the Federal Council of Churches and on several other boards and committees. He is also a specialist in the field of social ethics.

Assisting minister on the Sunday morning program will be the Rev. Gerret J. Wullschleger, pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church in New Paltz.

Dr. George W. Angell, acting president of the college, will preside at both graduation ceremonies, assisted by Dr. John Jacobson, acting dean and Dr. Loren D. Campbell, marshal of the college.

Other program participants include Robert Strothenke, and the Women's Ensemble conducted by Miss Marion Harding. Music will be by the College Band under the direction of Victor Landau.

Campus School Will Close Friday, June 12

New Paltz, June 5—Friday, June 12, will mark the end of a busy Campus school year.

By then, classroom exhibits will be dismantled, class pets will be taken either to their owners or to spend the summer at John Harrison's Camp Laurel and desks will be cleared to await another student's working tools.

Many parents have helped to compile the series of eight monthly articles concerning the Campus school that have appeared this year.

Among those parent members of the Parent Faculty Organization who have been responsible for the articles are Mrs. Victor Landau, Mrs. Charles Moerhke, Mrs. William Jay, Mrs. Richard Klix, Mrs. Eugene Link, Mrs. Abram Paradies, Mrs. Robert Lang and Mrs. Robert Swain.

Family Life Institute Will Meet June 22 to 27

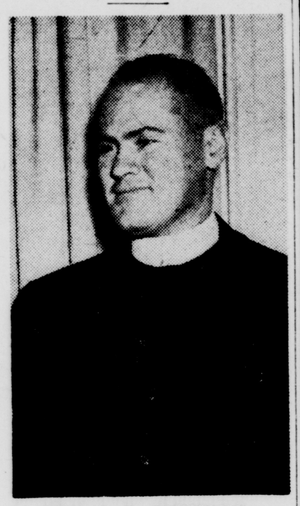
They are: Dr. Earl Lomon Koos, sociology professor and department chairman, University of Rochester; Dr. Elwood Street, executive director of the Community Chest and Council of Greater Bridgeport and Stratford, Conn.; and Mrs. Augusta Jewitt Street, president of the Tri-State Council on Family Relations. They will be available to institute participants for consultation on personal problems related to family living.

Daily sessions will run from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. with some evening programs. Interested persons may enroll for the entire institute or may attend individual sessions for a small admission charge. Participants will live in new college dormitories on the campus.

Anyone interested in strengthening family values is eligible to attend the New Paltz institute for the whole week or for individual sessions. Detailed program information may be obtained from Dr. Eugene P. Link, director of the institute and chairman of the social science division at State University Teachers College, New Paltz.

Father Simmons To Celebrate His 25th Anniversary



REV. J. D. SIMMONS

One of Kingston's best-known clergymen, who helped establish public observance of Good Friday among merchants of the city, and was chairman of the Family Rosary rally that filled Kingston Municipal Stadium last year with approximately 10,000 men, women and children, will celebrate his 25th anniversary in the Roman Catholic priesthood on Sunday.

The Rev. John D. Simmons, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church, will offer a solemn Mass of thanksgiving on June 7 at 11 a. m., attended by ranking clerics, classmates, who studied with him, and a guard of honor from the Fourth Degree Assembly, Knights of Columbus, Kingston Council, 275.

A parish reception will be held for Father Simmons in the evening at 8 o'clock in the school hall.

Several years ago, Father Simmons and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the First Dutch Reformed Church, led a campaign for the observance of three hours of worship on Good Friday. Merchants voluntarily closed their stores in cooperation with the move by the two clergymen of different faiths, so employes could attend church services, and the practice has continued annually.

Aid to Brotherhood

Reaction to the practice established by the priest and Protestant minister, as expressed publicly, was that their friendly attitude was a manifestation for the practical promotion of inter-faith brotherhood.

The Family Rosary rally held at the municipal stadium in September 28, last year, reflected great credit on Father Simmons, whose leadership as chairman of arrangements brought many of all faiths from Kingston and surrounding communities to take part in the ceremonies conducted by the Rev. Patrick Peyton, CSC, who instituted the Rosary crusade.

Father Peyton's local appearance was one of the most successful of a series he made throughout the country, and is remembered as one of the most impressive religious programs ever held in the city. The large grandstand was filled to capacity, extra bleachers were packed, standees filled the infield section of the baseball diamond and others heard Father Peyton's amplified message in parked cars and areas in Forsyth Park and in the nearby county quarry.

Classmate to Preach

At the Mass of thanksgiving, Father Simmons, who has been in Kingston for 16 years, will be assisted by the Rev. Edmund Burke, former assistant pastor of St. Joseph's, as deacon, and the Rev. William Wilkins, a classmate, as subdeacon. Father Wilkins is Catholic chaplain at Woodbourne Prison, Sullivan county.

The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Aubrey R. Seiter, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Rome, N. Y., also a classmate.

Faithful Navigator Kenneth Clark, in charge of the Fourth Degree Assembly honor guard, requests all Sir Knights to be at the church at 10:45 a. m. in full dress with outside baldric and sword. It is his desire that all planning to be present phone him at 5853 for the purpose of completing seating arrangements.

Children Attended Mass

On Tuesday, June 2, at 9 a. m. a Mass was sung by Father Simmons in the church for the children. During exercises in the school hall at 10:30 a. m., the children presented him with a spiritual bouquet.

After completing his work at St. Joseph's Seminary, Yonkers, Father Simmons was ordained on June 2, 1928, by Patrick Cardinal Hayes in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Other Stations

His first assignment was in Grant City, S. I., where he remained for one year. He then was assigned to St. John Chrysostom in the Bronx; remaining there for six and one-half years.

After a year and a half as chaplain at Sea View Hospital, Staten Island, Father Simmons was assigned to his present place in St. Joseph's parish.

Baby Finally Dies

Albany, June 5 (AP)—Two tearful 7-year-old girls brought the patient to Albany Hospital. Busy hospital attaches promptly took X-rays and applied splints to the broken leg. But the next day Ellen Abelson and Leslie Berliner reported that despite expert treatment the baby robin had died.

Samoan Beverage

A popular beverage is made by Samoan women, who chew the kava root and spit the juice into wooden bowls. After fermenting for three days, the juice is strained.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

By MRS. WILLIAM JAY

PFO Elects New Officers for Year

New Paltz, June 5—Mrs. Albert S. Kerr was elected president of the Parent-Faculty Organization at a recent meeting.

Others elected were Mrs. Laurin Abrams, Mrs. Robert Pyle, vice presidents; Mrs. Victor Landau, secretary; Mrs. A. Stephen Tenedini, communicating secretary and Robert Glans, treasurer.

Mrs. Keith Smiley, reporting on the Campus School Board, said that it had been having joint meetings with the district Board of Education. She also announced that the Campus School staff is complete for next year, and that an over-all policy of heterogeneous grouping had been adopted for the school. Dr. Thomas then explained the two systems widely used in making up school classes or groups — homogeneous and heterogeneous. He added that the children would know at the end of this term in which classes they will be in the fall.

Mrs. Henry Barg, chairman of the Health and Safety Committee, reported that there will be announcements in the local press concerning the proposed poison-ivy control program. She wishes that people interested in using the equipment would get in touch with her (phone 8325 in the evenings).

The Planning Board voted $25 to cover the cost of mimeograph paper needed for the parent bulletin next year.

Mr. Nasser presented a first draft of the orientation booklet Meet New Paltz, compiled by a committee of faculty and parents for distribution to newcomers in the community. It was voted to allot sufficient funds to the committee to mimeograph the booklet on good paper.

Reports on Reorganization

Mrs. Albert Kerr then presented the report of the special committee on the reorganization of the Parent-Faculty Organization. Concerning the basic structure of the organization it was recommended that first, the entire membership of the Parent-Faculty Organization, which shall include all parents and all faculty of the Campus School, shall have the final authority to determine basic policy, elect officers, and pass on actions of the Executive Committee; second, that the administration and detailed work shall be the responsibility of the Executive Committee; and third, that the Planning Board shall be abolished.

The Executive Committee shall be expanded to include the officers elected by the entire organization and the past chairman; the faculty representatives (5, chosen by the faculty) and the principal; chairmen of all standing committees; delegates of the Home Room Representatives. There will be four such delegates, one from the nursery-kindergarten division, one from the primary grades 1, 2, 3; one from the intermediate grades 4, 5, 6; and one from the upper grades 7, 8. The second vice president shall be designated in charge of Room Representatives.

It was recommended that the following standing committees be continued or set up: Program, Budget, Ways and Means, Public Relations (which includes publicity, bulletins, posters and bulletin board), Health and Safety, Research, Resources, and Refreshments. Three special committees should cover Constitution and By-laws, Book Fair, and All-School Family Night.

There shall be at least one (preferably two) meetings within each grade, and at least three all-school meetings during the year. The programs shall be varied; and refreshments and a social hour shall be part of most all school meetings.

It is tentatively suggested that there be two or three room representatives for each classroom. They shall be chosen by the delegates of the room representatives in cooperation with the teacher, use being made of the nominations already sent in by the parents.

School Corner

Placing of Pupils

New Paltz, June 5—A general policy of pupil placement and room assignment on a heterogenious basis has been formulated for the Campus School.

This means, it was explained, that representative groups are the aim of the principal and staff. Every effort is made to achieve balance and equal distribution in each classroom, it was said.

Parents are sometimes asked to help in making decisions in placement if their children are having difficulty in social, academic or emotional growth. They are asked not to request preferential placement for their children, however.

Work With Raffia

For some time students of Mrs. Mary O'Donnell's fifth grade have been working with raffia. On one wall of their room is a bright display of mats the children have woven, and carefully-fashioned baskets of this material can be seen.

This class has also been working with papier mache, and their parents are urged to visit and see the huge masks and bowls they have made.

Holds Reading Clinics

This year, Dr. George Bond has been directing a special reading clinic to help those students who have been finding it difficult to keep up with others in their class or who have particular reading problems. Out of the 30 children who have taken part in this program, Dr. Bond reports that 25 per cent have caught up completely and that all the others have shown great improvement. He hopes to continue with these children and greatly expand the program next year.

Nursery School Closes

The three and four-year-old nursery school groups will meet for the last time today, June 5, because of the end of the college year which makes it impossible to obtain further student help. The three-year-old group held its farewell picnic yesterday to which parents and younger brothers and sisters were invited.

Commencement Is Slated on Sunday

New Paltz, June 5 — Commencement ceremonies at State University Teachers College at New Paltz will take place Sunday, June 7. Some 200 candidates for the Bachelor of Science degree, and 50 for the Master's degree will attend in full academic regalia.

The Hon. W. Sterling Cole, congressional representative from the 37th District of New York, will deliver the Commencement address at 2:30 p. m. on the front campus. His topic will be The Vocation of Teaching: Old Lessons for a New Age. Rep. Cole is chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy and a member of the House Armed Services Committee. Rabbi Maurice J. Bloom of Newburgh will give the invocation and benediction. In case rain forces Commencement ceremonies be held indoors, admission will be by ticket only.

Morning Program

The Baccalaureate program will be held at 10:30 a. m. in the college auditorium. Dr. Liston Pope, dean of the Yale Divinity School, Yale University, will address the graduates on the subject, Some to Be Teachers. Dr. Pope is nationally known for his interest and leadership in the area of industrial-labor relations. Two of his books in this field are Millhands and Preachers and Labor's Relation to Church and Community. Dr. Pope has served in the Industrial Relations Division of the Federal Council of Churches and on several other boards and committees. He is also a specialist in the field of social ethics.

Assisting minister on the Sunday morning program will be the Rev. Gerret J. Wullschleger, pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church in New Paltz.

Dr. George W. Angell, acting president of the college, will preside at both graduation ceremonies, assisted by Dr. John Jacobson, acting dean and Dr. Loren D. Campbell, marshal of the college.

Other program participants include Robert Strothenke, and the Women's Ensemble conducted by Miss Marion Harding. Music will be by the College Band under the direction of Victor Landau.

Campus School Will Close Friday, June 12

New Paltz, June 5—Friday, June 12, will mark the end of a busy Campus school year.

By then, classroom exhibits will be dismantled, class pets will be taken either to their owners or to spend the summer at John Harrison's Camp Laurel and desks will be cleared to await another student's working tools.

Many parents have helped to compile the series of eight monthly articles concerning the Campus school that have appeared this year.

Among those parent members of the Parent Faculty Organization who have been responsible for the articles are Mrs. Victor Landau, Mrs. Charles Moerhke, Mrs. William Jay, Mrs. Richard Klix, Mrs. Eugene Link, Mrs. Abram Paradies, Mrs. Robert Lang and Mrs. Robert Swain.

Family Life Institute Will Meet June 22 to 27

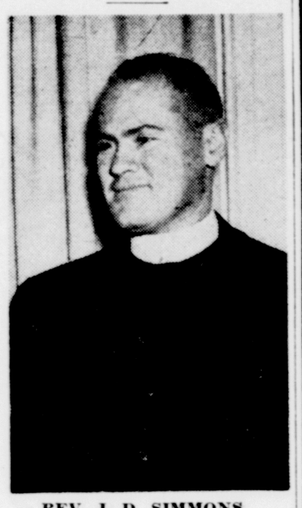
New Paltz, June 5—The third annual Family Life Institute will be held at State University Teachers College, June 22-27.

Securing Families in Changing Times is the theme of the 1953 institute. Three outstanding personalities in the field of family relations will lead the program of lectures, discussions, and activities. They are: Dr. Earl Lomon Koos, sociology professor and department chairman, University of Rochester; Dr. Elwood Street, executive director of the Community Chest and Council of Greater Bridgeport and Stratford, Conn.; and Mrs. Augusta Jewitt Street, president of the Tri-State Council on Family Relations. They will be available to institute participants for consultation on personal problems related to family living.

Daily sessions will run from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. with some evening programs. Interested persons may enroll for the entire institute or may attend individual sessions for a small admission charge. Participants will live in new college dormitories on the campus.

Anyone interested in strengthening family values is eligible to attend the New Paltz institute for the whole week or for individual sessions. Detailed program information may be obtained from Dr. Eugene P. Link, director of the institute and chairman of the social science division at State University Teachers College, New Paltz.

Father Simmons To Celebrate His 25th Anniversary



REV. J. D. SIMMONS

One of Kingston's best-known clergymen, who helped establish public observance of Good Friday among merchants of the city, and was chairman of the Family Rosary rally that filled Kingston Municipal Stadium last year with approximately 10,000 men, women and children, will celebrate his 25th anniversary in the Roman Catholic priesthood on Sunday.

The Rev. John D. Simmons, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church, will offer a solemn Mass of thanksgiving on June 7 at 11 a. m., attended by ranking clerics, classmates, who studied with him, and a guard of honor from the Fourth Degree Assembly, Knights of Columbus, Kingston Council, 275.

A parish reception will be held for Father Simmons in the evening at 8 o'clock in the school hall.

Several years ago, Father Simmons and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the First Dutch Reformed Church, led a campaign for the observance of three hours of worship on Good Friday. Merchants voluntarily closed their stores in cooperation with the move by the two clergymen of different faiths, so employes could attend church services, and the practice has continued annually.

Aid to Brotherhood

Reaction to the practice established by the priest and Protestant minister, as expressed publicly, was that their friendly attitude was a manifestation for the practical promotion of inter-faith brotherhood.

The Family Rosary rally held at the municipal stadium in September 28, last year, reflected great credit on Father Simmons, whose leadership as chairman of arrangements brought many of all faiths from Kingston and surrounding communities to take part in the ceremonies conducted by the Rev. Patrick Peyton, CSC, who instituted the Rosary crusade.

Father Peyton's local appearance was one of the most successful of a series he made throughout the country, and is remembered as one of the most impressive religious programs ever held in the city. The large grandstand was filled to capacity, extra bleachers were packed, standees filled the infield section of the baseball diamond and others heard Father Peyton's amplified message in parked cars and areas in Forsyth Park and in the nearby county quarry.

Classmate to Preach

At the Mass of thanksgiving, Father Simmons, who has been in Kingston for 16 years, will be assisted by the Rev. Edmund Burke, former assistant pastor of St. Joseph's, as deacon, and the Rev. William Wilkins, a classmate, as subdeacon. Father Wilkins is Catholic chaplain at Woodbourne Prison, Sullivan county.

The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Aubrey R. Seiter, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Rome, N. Y., also a classmate.

Faithful Navigator Kenneth Clark, in charge of the Fourth Degree Assembly honor guard, requests all Sir Knights to be at the church at 10:45 a. m. in full dress with outside baldric and sword. It is his desire that all planning to be present phone him at 5853 for the purpose of completing seating arrangements.

Children Attended Mass

On Tuesday, June 2, at 9 a. m. a Mass was sung by Father Simmons in the church for the children. During exercises in the school hall at 10:30 a. m., the children presented him with a spiritual bouquet.

After completing his work at St. Joseph's Seminary, Yonkers, Father Simmons was ordained on June 2, 1928, by Patrick Cardinal Hayes in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Other Stations

His first assignment was in Grant City, S. I., where he remained for one year. He then was assigned to St. John Chrysostom in the Bronx; remaining there for six and one-half years.

After a year and a half as chaplain at Sea View Hospital, Staten Island, Father Simmons was assigned to his present place in St. Joseph's parish.

Baby Finally Dies

Albany, June 5 (AP)—Two tearful 7-year-old girls brought the patient to Albany Hospital. Busy hospital attaches promptly took X-rays and applied splints to the broken leg. But the next day Ellen Abelson and Leslie Berliner reported that despite expert treatment the baby robin had died.

Samoan Beverage

A popular beverage is made by Samoan women, who chew the kava root and spit the juice into wooden bowls. After fermenting for three days, the juice is strained.

SHAKY GOVERNMENTS

Shortly Italy will have an election that will test the strength of one of America's warmest friends, Premier De Gasperi.

As in the national elections of April, 1948, this one will be important also as a measuring rod of Communist power at the polls. But it has still another special significance.

To prepare for it, De Gasperi has had to jam through the Italian parliament an election law that will give extra weight — in terms of numbers of deputies — to the popular vote recorded by his own Christian Democrat Party.

The obvious aim is to heighten the chances that he will have a decent working margin in the parliament, if he is able to win at all. Were De Gasperi not our friend, were he representative of antidemocratic forces, we would be assailing this election maneuver as "rigging."

In the circumstances we condone it. We condone it because we want effective government, friendly to us, installed in Italy. And that is something which is hard to find anywhere in Western Europe.

Italy, like France, suffers from an overabundance of parties. Some 70 are taking part in this election. Government is possible only through coalitions. Control is always wobbly, and policies must be trimmed to fit this weakness.

The Bonn government in West Germany is no different. Able Chancellor Adenauer had to resort to tricky parliamentary devices to get the European Army pact through his legislature.

Some writers are suggesting that the dominant characteristic of postwar democratic systems is the feebleness of the executive arm and the contrasting power of parliaments. Given a weak executive and a legislature torn among many parties — or at least differing viewpoints — you most often have chaos and inaction.

Parliaments can make laws but they cannot govern, that is, administer and make day-to-day discretionary policy. They are not equipped for quick decision. Yet they seem strong enough to prevent prime ministers from governing effectively.

The problem probably is least evident in Britain. But there are those who profess to see considerable signs of it right here in America, where in Congress even the President's own party frequently stands in the way of policies he desires. The constitutional experts agree, however, that an American President has the power to govern if he chooses to exercise it.

Nevertheless, in France, Italy, West Germany and elsewhere, democracy as it is now practiced may be in for severe trial. The first German republic fell before Hitler because it could not govern. French resistance to Hitler's growth was frail partly because French government was rudderless and unstable.

The tests today are no less critical. If the men in these lands who genuinely cherish democracy do not soon devise machinery for dealing with their problems decisively, the democratic way may fall into new disrepute and the path be paved for a resurgence of dictatorial government.

ATOMIC ARTILLERY

The United States Army has fired an atomic artillery shell. Its explosion marked a new chapter in the history of warfare. The shell widens the uses of atomic weapons which were once limited to the air forces. It makes possible the front-line use of atomic power against infantry and tanks.

One of the greatest generals of all time, Napoleon Bonaparte, once said that God was on the side that had the best artillery. Atomic artillery may prove to be the most effective ever created by man.

If our forces had not developed the atomic artillery the Russians would have done so. In time it is possible that they will build such weapons even as they succeeded in getting the secret of the atomic bomb. But we do have a start on them and that start may deter them for a time at least from any new aggressions.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

BEHIND THE SWEATSHOP CURTAIN

If all labor were equally paid for the same kind of work in all industrial countries, that is, if there were an economic "One World," there would be no need of any kind of protective tariff anywhere. If all currencies were stabilized so that transfer of goods could not be affected by the exchange of monies, there would be no need for any kind of a protective tariff. And to make one further point, if no governments subsidized their industries, so that goods might be dumped into particular countries for political objectives, there would be no need for a protective tariff in any country on earth.

Unfortunately none of these postulates stands up against the facts, particularly against the fact that, by American standards, all labor in Europe is sweated and in Asia is so cheap as to be almost unpaid. And to that must be added the existence of slave labor. Slave labor probably also is employed in Soviet China, which is now being industrialized.

Those who are advocating low tariffs or even free trade for the United States do not quite tell the truth. They constantly emphasize the importance of foreign trade to stabilize our own economy and to protect Great Britain from collapse or from being forced to trade with Soviet Russia and Soviet China. That is so small a part of the story that it is the least important part.

What is actually happening is that considerable American capital has ben exported to European countries under ECA and by other means for the rebuilding of European industries. Also there are a number of American firms which have been establishing branches all over the world, manufacturing various commodities, some of which these Americans hope to export to the United States. Some American banks export capital from the United States to foreign countries with the hope of manufacturing goods for export to the United States.

This really involves a flight of American capital from the United States with the object of manufacturing goods, made by foreign sweated labor at low wage levels, to compete with American labor, receiving high wages and high fringe benefits. I have not yet studied the relationship of this process of earning profits to taxes. That is a rather involved matter which will take a great deal of study.

A limited number of American firms can build world-wide economic empires. Most American businesses possess neither the capital nor the experience to engage in this type of enterprise.

Therefore, what is called small business in the United States continues to demand a protective tariff, while big business goes so far as to favor free trade. It was never before true in this country that big business favored free trade. Most American industries were built up by the protective tariff, which is also largely responsible for high wages and the high standard of living in this country. The change of attitude has come so suddenly that few understand the real reason until the entire subject is related to export capital and to the flight of some phases of American industry from American labor.

This needs to be studied in all its phases to find a full explanation of the process and to relate it not only to the tariff, but to wage scale and to the American standard of living. The "flight from American labor" may be justified on economic grounds. Already there are signs that Western Germany and Japan are pushing into markets which, after the war, some Americans had hoped would be developed for American goods.

Sweated labor, producing the same commodities, will always undersell highly paid labor—particularly if the savings of mass production are practiced in both the cheap labor and high-priced labor countries. When American capital is exported, American management is also exported.

This is not a subject for high pressure propaganda. It is one that needs to be investigated fully and honestly. It requires a statistical approach by an impartial body which seeks facts and will make the facts known in the national interest. I hit upon it because of my keen interest in the surprisingly sudden support of free trade by American big industry, which has always labored valiantly for a protective tariff. There must be a reason for the changed attitude.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

CHILDREN WITH BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

While asthma itself is not usually a fatal disease, the damage it can do to the body—bronchial tubes, heart, lungs and nerves—can so undermine the health that death may result from complications.

While an asthmatic attack is serious enough in an adult, a severe attack in a child is pitiful to witness especially for parents.

Fortunately, the great majority of attacks can be stopped in a matter of minutes by the use of the injection of 10 to 15 degrees of epinephrine (adrenalin).

In former days, as the cause of asthma was unknown, physicians were satisfied to relieve the attack, but today physicians not only can relieve the attack, but, in the majority of cases, can give treatment to prevent attacks.

In Annals of Allergy, Minneapolis, Drs. L. Unger, A. H. Unger and A. A. Wolf report on 366 children whose bronchial asthma began on or before the age of 13 and who were studied from 1 to 30 years.

In paroxysmal asthma (when attack comes on suddenly and violently) there are no symptoms between attacks; in chronic asthma there are some symptoms — coughing, wheezing, shortness of breath — which become very severe at times. The physician recognizes chronic asthma by these symptoms and the fact that relief is obtained by the use of epinephrine (adrenalin), a history of asthma in the family or other symptoms of allergy in the patient — head colds, hives, and skin tests.

The general treatment includes the avoiding of allergic substances—furs, feathers, foods, house or other dusts—injections of small quantities of the allergic substances to allow the patient to get so used to them that his system sets up enough defense to prevent use of adrenalin, aminophylline, syrup of ipecac (which loosens the plug of mucus) and in severe prolonged attacks, hospitalization in an allergy free room.

In 60 of the 366 patients, no treatment was given. In the other 306 children the results were as follows: complete relief of symptoms in 99 cases; marked relief (75 to 95 per cent) in 139 cases; moderate improvement (25 to 75 per cent) in 45 cases; failure in 15 children; and death in eight children. Paroxysmal asthma (no symptoms between attacks) was present in 281 cases and chronic asthma in 25. "Treatment gave far better results in paroxysmal than in chronic but chronic asthma in children has a much better prognosis (probable outcome) than in adults."

The best results of treatment were obtained in cases where the asthma was caused by pollen of plants as the physician was thus able to give the usual treatment for "pollen" sufferers (asthma, hay fever, eczema)—that is the desensitizing of the patient by injecting tiny doses of the pollen under the skin.

Big Wheel

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA) — Almost unnoticed by city folk, a new kind of local sub-government has grown up in rural United States. It is built around the so-called Soil Conservation District.

A soil conservation district may cross township, county and even state lines. Its limits are the natural boundaries of a drainage area. This area may be as small as a creek or a branch valley. It may take in the land area drained by one tributary. The tributary districts even form watershed associations to cover an entire river system.

These districts and associations are becoming better organized all the time. California has had flood control district organizations for many years. State law there has given these districts authority to levy taxes for improvements in their own areas.

Several years ago Nebraska passed a law authorizing local watershed groups to organize. Kansas followed suit last year.

R. W. Rogers, chief of the records section of U. S. Soil Conservation Service, in the Department of Agriculture, reports that at the end of 1952 nearly 2500 soil conservation districts had been formed in the United States and its territories.

These districts contain 80 per cent of all the agricultural land and 85 per cent of all the farms and ranches. Eleven states, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico are completely covered with locally managed districts. It will be necessary to organize only 140 more districts to cover the entire U. S. Over 1,250,000 farms are now cooperating.

Already they have their own trade association. It is called the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts. W. S. David, Jr., of League City, Tex., has been national president for the last two years.

Puts Pressure on Congress

What is in the making here is a powerful new farm organization —a powerful new farm lobby and pressure group, some people believe—with a common interest, a common problem and a common goal.

The common interest is water and land. The common goal is to get the maximum aid from every source for proper utilization of water on land and the prevention of destruction of the land by too much water in flood time.

Already there are evidences that this new element in the old water lobby is beginning to throw its weight around. R. A. McConnell, Jr., of Lincoln, Neb., has headed delegations of citizens from his area, which have come to Washington twice in the last six months demanding more attention to its problems.

When Congress was threatening to cut off appropriations for continuing work on 11 Department of Agriculture watershed development projects, delegations from these areas came to Washington and turned on the heat. They were able to save half of their requested $15 million appropriation in the House. The Senate has yet to act.

That the soil conservation district story has an effective appeal in Congress is further shown by the fact that the House has already appropriated money for starts on 48 new federal-aid projects for watershed protection.

All t hese developments present the Eisenhower administration with a couple of dandy new problems.

Districts Might Call for Federal Help

One of the principles of this business administration was that federal handouts for local public-works programs would be reduced. The government would refrain from doing things that local citizens could do for themselves.

The Soil Conservation District movement is a local movement, all right. The districts in many cases levy taxes against themselves, float local bond issues, get allocations from highway funds and even state government help for many of their projects.

The districts are voluntary organizations. There is no federal compulsion to belong. But when the bills get bigger than the soil conservation district feel they can pay themselves, they aren't going to be above asking for help from Uncle Sam.

What happens to the principle of stopping federal aid for local developments, in such cases, remains to be seen.

The second problem facing the federal government is whether it is going to build up a third bureaucracy in the Department of Agriculture to deal with land and water problems.

Already the government has Army Corps of Engineers and Bureau of Reclamation with divided responsibility over big river projects. Almost every study of government reorganization has recommended that their work should be unified.

A Presidential Water Resources Commission headed by Morris L. Cooke last year recommended that a single agency coordinate all water-use policy and river-basin development. Instead of that, however, a fair start has been made to split the baby in three.

President's Television Show Is Considered Inadequate so Far as Influencing Votes Goes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 5—Politically speaking, the television show put on by President Eisenhower and four cabinet members had some advantages, but, as a device to inform the country and influence large segments of voters on paramount issues, it was inadequate. One almost wished that Mr. Eisenhower had selected a single subject and dealt with it himself comprehensively rather than to try as he did, through his associates, to cover a variety of complex topics, no one of which was thoroughly handled.

With all due deference to the importance perhaps of simplicity and "folksiness" on the part of our high officials in their appearances on the screen, it may well be wondered whether the American people like to see their President acting as a sort of master of ceremonies in a piece of obviously rehearsed showmanship. As a novelty, it was interesting—as a regular technique, it raises doubts.

The acting, to be sure, was well done and the President carried off his part from a dramatic standpoint with an informality and spontaneity that emphasized again his likable personality. There was a sincerity and earnestness about what he said and the way he said it which undoubtedly convinced many people that he is trying hard—that his effort to "put the government house in order" is in the right direction.

But as a piece of political influence, it is questionable whether this presentation ranks with some of those skillfully prepared "fireside chats" which the late President Roosevelt occasionally broadcast on the radio during his four administrations. One advantage that Mr. Eisenhower didn't share with Mr. Roosevelt was a monopoly of the networks. All the television networks took the program but only one radio chain, so this did not shut off the competition from the comedians and musicians.

While some of the Democrats around here thought the presidential show was effective, it may be said that some of them are not going to be much worried if the political quality of future television shows is not any better than the one on Wednesday night.

For the essence of politics is prejudice — favorable and unfavorable there is no need to "sell" the fine personality and good nature of Dwight Eisenhower. It is "deeds not words" which influence the electorate in the long run. When the President promises that there will be "no Munich" in the Far East and yet "no risk of general war," he reassures many elements in the electorate, but the real issue on which the people's prejudices can be aroused is whether after all there is to be an early end to the Korean war and on what basis.

Likewise, what many people wanted to know succinctly is that there will be adequate defense even though air power is cut. They also are anxious to learn whether the economic system faces a major readjustment. As for Communist influences and the administration's program to rid the government of "subversives," these are highly controversial subjects and they were vaguely treated in the telecast. It was hard to tell just what the government plans to do on this score or what it has really done about it. The concept of television seemed to be that it was a means of creating a visual impression of a favorable nature rather than a medium for disseminating complete information on political issues.

It will be said in explanation by administration folks that this was only the first of a series of television shows and that with experience they will hit more directly at political targets. Maybe they will. But, while the lines of this first show were well spoken and well acted by all the participants, they were abstract in content. A splendid chance was missed, moreover, to defend the inability of the administration to balance the budget and cut taxes right away and to extricate America from the Korean "mess."

There was a failure also to emphasize the state of affairs existing when the administration came into power and to outline penetratingly the difficulty of clearing up much of anything in only four and a half months. The administration, however, is a bit blind to political realities, anyway. Indeed, there are persons in the President's entourage who still think he won the election on his popularity alone and not primarily on the deep-seated prejudices against Trumanism which swept every part of the country.

If the television producers had known more about politics and its negative trends and tendencies, they would have presented a far more effective telecast. While the show didn't lose votes, it is a question whether it gained many, though it did please supporters of the administration. The best that can be said of the performance was that it put across a point of view: "Wait now—we're trying."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The editors of the Nashville Tennessean have had a fight with Elmer D. Davis, judge of the United States Court for the District of Middle Tennessee, who wrote the paper a nasty, threatening letter and then vindicated himself by his own decision in his own court. Few of us were familiar with the character and conduct of the federal judiciary prior to the packing of the bench by the Roosevelt - Truman administration with political devotees of the Democratic party and weak Republicans. My own opinion, and I dare say the opinion of most of the laity, as of then was, however, that the federal judiciary were, subject to exceptions, which were few and spectacular, unusually high-grade men in three essentials, character, morals and education. This esteem certainly has not been maintained by the new bench and, in this case, Judge Davies' letter to the editor of the Tennessean smacked more of the anger of a roadside J. P. presiding over a speed-trap than of the federal judiciary as it should be.

The spat arose over a command by the judge to a witness who was a Negro to wear a coat to cover his shirt when he was on the stand. The incident occurred last July when Nashville was having hot weather and the paper took the court to task because, it said, the witness had to travel home to Murfreesboro, borrow a coat and return the next day.

Davies promptly wrote a letter to the editor threatening to teach him a lesson by directing the clerk of the court to put the names of "your editors," presumably all of them, into the jury box for the next term. The tone of the letter was undignified and spiteful and Elisha Hanson, chief counsel of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, who went down from Washington to argue a motion to dismiss one summons for grand jury duty, got the rough side of an autocrat's tongue and lost out. The judge crawled, however, to the extent of denying that his threat had actually been carried out. The public was asked to believe that mere coincidence governed the calling of Coleman Harwell, editor, and John H. Nye, associate editor, for the grand and petit juries, respectively, after the letter was published. The public is not required so to believe, however.

Davies wrote: "It is unfortunate that your usual inaccurate reporting caused the writer (if one there was) of the anonymous letter published in the July 15 issue of your paper to be unnecessarily concerned over defendants in this court losing a freedom by being denied the testimony of a coatless witness."

An editorial in the same issue caught up the judge on his implication that witnesses had been described as witnesses for any defendant, and said they had been described merely as "witnesses." The paper also challenged an ensuing statement in the judge's letter that "if it appears that the witness does not have a coat, we are glad to furnish one."

On that point, the Tennessean replied: "That may be the case now. It was not the case when our story and editorial were written," and cited the case already mentioned and another case of a witness who borrowed a coat from an agent of the FBI.

"Our position," the paper said, "was—and remains—that a man in overalls is capable of just as much dignity as a man in a Brooks Brothers suit, or, for that matter, a judge in a black robe. * * * The judge could spend his time much more profitably than in acting as a fashion arbiter. He might, for example, take his own coat off and go to work on the tremendous back-log of cases that have accumulated during his frequent and extended hunting and fishing trips."

Hanson's motion to dismiss Harwell's summons for grand jury duty was argued May 23 with Davies sitting in judgment on the facts of his own case and the propriety of his own conduct. Hanson said the summons was illegal because Davies had no authority to give orders to the clerk to call anyone for jury duty.

"The jury system cannot be made the tool of any individual's purpose whether that purpose springs from lofty or base motives," Hanson argued in his motion. Davies threw the Nye case entirely out of court because Nye had served in another term. He called to the stand Lonnie Ormes, clerk of the court, and asked him questions which elicited a statement that he received from Davies no such order as his letter had threatened to issue. Ormes did say, however, that he had seen the judge's letter in print, but when Hanson asked him if he considered that "sufficient," Davies shut him off.

Hanson apparently intended to ask if Ormes had taken the letter as an order from Davies, but if so, the judge was taking no chances. When Hanson asked Davies point-blank whether he did issue such an order, Davies had the effrontery to say: "That is none of your affair," although that was the

Shortly Italy will have an election that will test the strength of one of America's warmest friends, Premier De Gasperi.

As in the national elections of April, 1948, this one will be important also as a measuring rod of Communist power at the polls. But it has still another special significance.

To prepare for it, De Gasperi has had to jam through the Italian parliament an election law that will give extra weight — in terms of numbers of deputies — to the popular vote recorded by his own Christian Democrat Party.

The obvious aim is to heighten the chances that he will have a decent working margin in the parliament, if he is able to win at all. Were De Gasperi not our friend, were he representative of antidemocratic forces, we would be assailing this election maneuver as "rigging."

In the circumstances we condone it. We condone it because we want effective government, friendly to us, installed in Italy. And that is something which is hard to find anywhere in Western Europe.

Italy, like France, suffers from an overabundance of parties. Some 70 are taking part in this election. Government is possible only through coalitions. Control is always wobbly, and policies must be trimmed to fit this weakness.

The Bonn government in West Germany is no different. Able Chancellor Adenauer had to resort to tricky parliamentary devices to get the European Army pact through his legislature.

Some writers are suggesting that the dominant characteristic of postwar democratic systems is the feebleness of the executive arm and the contrasting power of parliaments. Given a weak executive and a legislature torn among many parties — or at least differing viewpoints — you most often have chaos and inaction.

Parliaments can make laws but they cannot govern, that is, administer and make day-to-day discretionary policy. They are not equipped for quick decision. Yet they seem strong enough to prevent prime ministers from governing effectively.

The problem probably is least evident in Britain. But there are those who profess to see considerable signs of it right here in America, where in Congress even the President's own party frequently stands in the way of policies he desires. The constitutional experts agree, however, that an American President has the power to govern if he chooses to exercise it.

Nevertheless, in France, Italy, West Germany and elsewhere, democracy as it is now practiced may be in for severe trial. The first German republic fell before Hitler because it could not govern. French resistance to Hitler's growth was frail partly because French government was rudderless and unstable.

The tests today are no less critical. If the men in these lands who genuinely cherish democracy do not soon devise machinery for dealing with their problems decisively, the democratic way may fall into new disrepute and the path be paved for a resurgence of dictatorial government.

ATOMIC ARTILLERY

The United States Army has fired an atomic artillery shell. Its explosion marked a new chapter in the history of warfare. The shell widens the uses of atomic weapons which were once limited to the air forces. It makes possible the front-line use of atomic power against infantry and tanks.

One of the greatest generals of all time, Napoleon Bonaparte, once said that God was on the side that had the best artillery. Atomic artillery may prove to be the most effective ever created by man.

If our forces had not developed the atomic artillery the Russians would have done so. In time it is possible that they will build such weapons even as they succeeded in getting the secret of the atomic bomb. But we do have a start on them and that start may deter them for a time at least from any new aggressions.

'These Days'

BEHIND THE SWEATSHOP CURTAIN

If all labor were equally paid for the same kind of work in all industrial countries, that is, if there were an economic "One World," there would be no need of any kind of protective tariff anywhere. If all currencies were stabilized so that transfer of goods could not be affected by the exchange of monies, there would be no need for any kind of a protective tariff. And to make one further point, if no governments subsidized their industries, so that goods might be dumped into particular countries for political objectives, there would be no need for a protective tariff in any country on earth.

Unfortunately none of these postulates stands up against the facts, particularly against the fact that, by American standards, all labor in Europe is sweated and in Asia is so cheap as to be almost unpaid. And to that must be added the existence of slave labor. Slave labor probably also is employed in Soviet China, which is now being industrialized.

Those who are advocating low tariffs or even free trade for the United States do not quite tell the truth. They constantly emphasize the importance of foreign trade to stabilize our own economy and to protect Great Britain from collapse or from being forced to trade with Soviet Russia and Soviet China. That is so small a part of the story that it is the least important part.

What is actually happening is that considerable American capital has ben exported to European countries under ECA and by other means for the rebuilding of European industries. Also there are a number of American firms which have been establishing branches all over the world, manufacturing various commodities, some of which these Americans hope to export to the United States. Some American banks export capital from the United States to foreign countries with the hope of manufacturing goods for export to the United States.

This really involves a flight of American capital from the United States with the object of manufacturing goods, made by foreign sweated labor at low wage levels, to compete with American labor, receiving high wages and high fringe benefits. I have not yet studied the relationship of this process of earning profits to taxes. That is a rather involved matter which will take a great deal of study.

A limited number of American firms can build world-wide economic empires. Most American businesses possess neither the capital nor the experience to engage in this type of enterprise.

Therefore, what is called small business in the United States continues to demand a protective tariff, while big business goes so far as to favor free trade. It was never before true in this country that big business favored free trade. Most American industries were built up by the protective tariff, which is also largely responsible for high wages and the high standard of living in this country. The change of attitude has come so suddenly that few understand the real reason until the entire subject is related to export capital and to the flight of some phases of American industry from American labor.

This needs to be studied in all its phases to find a full explanation of the process and to relate it not only to the tariff, but to wage scale and to the American standard of living. The "flight from American labor" may be justified on economic grounds. Already there are signs that Western Germany and Japan are pushing into markets which, after the war, some Americans had hoped would be developed for American goods.

Sweated labor, producing the same commodities, will always undersell highly paid labor—particularly if the savings of mass production are practiced in both the cheap labor and high-priced labor countries. When American capital is exported, American management is also exported.

This is not a subject for high pressure propaganda. It is one that needs to be investigated fully and honestly. It requires a statistical approach by an impartial body which seeks facts and will make the facts known in the national interest. I hit upon it because of my keen interest in the surprisingly sudden support of free trade by American big industry, which has always labored valiantly for a protective tariff. There must be a reason for the changed attitude.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

CHILDREN WITH BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

While asthma itself is not usually a fatal disease, the damage it can do to the body—bronchial tubes, heart, lungs and nerves—can so undermine the health that death may result from complications.

While an asthmatic attack is serious enough in an adult, a severe attack in a child is pitiful to witness especially for parents.

Fortunately, the great majority of attacks can be stopped in a matter of minutes by the use of the injection of 10 to 15 degrees of epinephrine (adrenalin).

In former days, as the cause of asthma was unknown, physicians were satisfied to relieve the attack, but today physicians not only can relieve the attack, but, in the majority of cases, can give treatment to prevent attacks.

In Annals of Allergy, Minneapolis, Drs. L. Unger, A. H. Unger and A. A. Wolf report on 366 children whose bronchial asthma began on or before the age of 13 and who were studied from 1 to 30 years.

In paroxysmal asthma (when attack comes on suddenly and violently) there are no symptoms between attacks; in chronic asthma there are some symptoms — coughing, wheezing, shortness of breath — which become very severe at times. The physician recognizes chronic asthma by these symptoms and the fact that relief is obtained by the use of epinephrine (adrenalin), a history of asthma in the family or other symptoms of allergy in the patient — head colds, hives, and skin tests.

The general treatment includes the avoiding of allergic substances—furs, feathers, foods, house or other dusts—injections of small quantities of the allergic substances to allow the patient to get so used to them that his system sets up enough defense to prevent use of adrenalin, aminophylline, syrup of ipecac (which loosens the plug of mucus) and in severe prolonged attacks, hospitalization in an allergy free room.

In 60 of the 366 patients, no treatment was given. In the other 306 children the results were as follows: complete relief of symptoms in 99 cases; marked relief (75 to 95 per cent) in 139 cases; moderate improvement (25 to 75 per cent) in 45 cases; failure in 15 children; and death in eight children. Paroxysmal asthma (no symptoms between attacks) was present in 281 cases and chronic asthma in 25. "Treatment gave far better results in paroxysmal than in chronic but chronic asthma in children has a much better prognosis (probable outcome) than in adults."

The best results of treatment were obtained in cases where the asthma was caused by pollen of plants as the physician was thus able to give the usual treatment for "pollen" sufferers (asthma, hay fever, eczema)—that is the desensitizing of the patient by injecting tiny doses of the pollen under the skin.

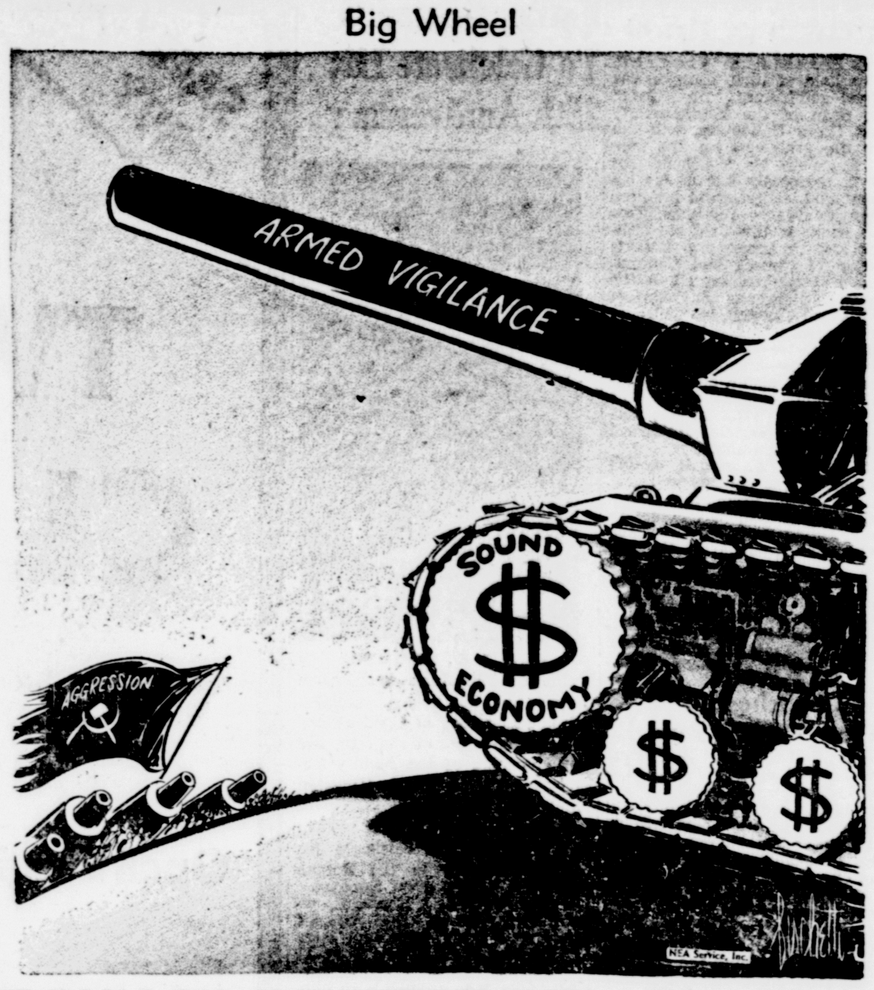
Big Wheel



Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA) — Almost unnoticed by city folk, a new kind of local sub-government has grown up in rural United States. It is built around the so-called Soil Conservation District.

A soil conservation district may cross township, county and even state lines. Its limits are the natural boundaries of a drainage area. This area may be as small as a creek or a branch valley. It may take in the land area drained by one tributary. The tributary districts even form watershed associations to cover an entire river system.

These districts and associations are becoming better organized all the time. California has had flood control district organizations for many years. State law there has given these districts authority to levy taxes for improvements in their own areas.

Several years ago Nebraska passed a law authorizing local watershed groups to organize. Kansas followed suit last year.

R. W. Rogers, chief of the records section of U. S. Soil Conservation Service, in the Department of Agriculture, reports that at the end of 1952 nearly 2500 soil conservation districts had been formed in the United States and its territories.

These districts contain 80 per cent of all the agricultural land and 85 per cent of all the farms and ranches. Eleven states, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico are completely covered with locally managed districts. It will be necessary to organize only 140 more districts to cover the entire U. S. Over 1,250,000 farms are now cooperating.

Already they have their own trade association. It is called the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts. W. S. David, Jr., of League City, Tex., has been national president for the last two years.

Puts Pressure on Congress

What is in the making here is a powerful new farm organization—a powerful new farm lobby and pressure group, some people believe—with a common interest, a common problem and a common goal.

The common interest is water and land. The common goal is to get the maximum aid from every source for proper utilization of water on land and the prevention of destruction of the land by too much water in flood time.

Already there are evidences that this new element in the old water lobby is beginning to throw its weight around. R. A. McConnell, Jr., of Lincoln, Neb., has headed delegations of citizens from his area, which have come to Washington twice in the last six months demanding more attention to its problems.

When Congress was threatening to cut off appropriations for continuing work on 11 Department of Agriculture watershed development projects, delegations from these areas came to Washington and turned on the heat. They were able to save half of their requested $15 million appropriation in the House. The Senate has yet to act.

That the soil conservation district story has an effective appeal in Congress is further shown by the fact that the House has already appropriated money for starts on 48 new federal-aid projects for watershed protection.

All t hese developments present the Eisenhower administration with a couple of dandy new problems.

Districts Might Call for Federal Help

One of the principles of this business administration was that federal handouts for local public-works programs would be reduced. The government would refrain from doing things that local citizens could do for themselves.

The Soil Conservation District movement is a local movement, all right. The districts in many cases levy taxes against themselves, float local bond issues, get allocations from highway funds and even state government help for many of their projects.

The districts are voluntary organizations. There is no federal compulsion to belong. But when the bills get bigger than the soil conservation district feel they can pay themselves, they aren't going to be above asking for help from Uncle Sam.

What happens to the principle of stopping federal aid for local developments, in such cases, remains to be seen.

The second problem facing the federal government is whether it is going to build up a third bureaucracy in the Department of Agriculture to deal with land and water problems.

Already the government has Army Corps of Engineers and Bureau of Reclamation with divided responsibility over big river projects. Almost every study of government reorganization has recommended that their work should be unified.

A Presidential Water Resources Commission headed by Morris L. Cooke last year recommended that a single agency coordinate all water-use policy and river-basin development. Instead of that, however, a fair start has been made to split the baby in three.

President's Television Show Is Considered Inadequate so Far as Influencing Votes Goes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 5—Politically speaking, the television show put on by President Eisenhower and four cabinet members had some advantages, but, as a device to inform the country and influence large segments of voters on paramount issues, it was inadequate. One almost wished that Mr. Eisenhower had selected a single subject and dealt with it himself comprehensively rather than to try as he did, through his associates, to cover a variety of complex topics, no one of which was thoroughly handled.

With all due deference to the importance perhaps of simplicity and "folksiness" on the part of our high officials in their appearances on the screen, it may well be wondered whether the American people like to see their President acting as a sort of master of ceremonies in a piece of obviously rehearsed showmanship. As a novelty, it was interesting—as a regular technique, it raises doubts.

The acting, to be sure, was well done and the President carried off his part from a dramatic standpoint with an informality and spontaneity that emphasized again his likable personality. There was a sincerity and earnestness about what he said and the way he said it which undoubtedly convinced many people that he is trying hard—that his effort to "put the government house in order" is in the right direction.

But as a piece of political influence, it is questionable whether this presentation ranks with some of those skillfully prepared "fireside chats" which the late President Roosevelt occasionally broadcast on the radio during his four administrations. One advantage that Mr. Eisenhower didn't share with Mr. Roosevelt was a monopoly of the networks. All the television networks took the program but only one radio chain, so this did not shut off the competition from the comedians and musicians.

While some of the Democrats around here thought the presidential show was effective, it may be said that some of them are not going to be much worried if the political quality of future television shows is not any better than the one on Wednesday night.

For the essence of politics is prejudice — favorable and unfavorable there is no need to "sell" the fine personality and good nature of Dwight Eisenhower. It is "deeds not words" which influence the electorate in the long run. When the President promises that there will be "no Munich" in the Far East and yet "no risk of general war," he reassures many elements in the electorate, but the real issue on which the people's prejudices can be aroused is whether after all there is to be an early end to the Korean war and on what basis.

Likewise, what many people wanted to know succinctly is that there will be adequate defense even though air power is cut. They also are anxious to learn whether the economic system faces a major readjustment. As for Communist influences and the administration's program to rid the government of "subversives," these are highly controversial subjects and they were vaguely treated in the telecast. Maybe they will. But, while the lines of this first show were well spoken and well acted by all the participants, they were abstract in content. A splendid chance was missed, moreover, to defend the inability of the administration to balance the budget and cut taxes right away and to extricate America from the Korean "mess."

There was a failure also to emphasize the state of affairs existing when the administration came into power and to outline penetratingly the difficulty of clearing up much of anything in only four and a half months. The administration, however, is a bit blind to political realities, anyway. Indeed, there are persons in the President's entourage who still think he won the election on his popularity alone and not primarily on the deep-seated prejudices against Trumanism which swept every part of the country.

If the television producers had known more about politics and its negative trends and tendencies, they would have presented a far more effective telecast. While the show didn't lose votes, it is a question whether it gained many, though it did please supporters of the administration. The best that can be said of the performance was that it put across a point of view: "Wait now—we're trying."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The editors of the Nashville Tennessean have had a fight with Elmer D. Davis, judge of the United States Court for the District of Middle Tennessee, who wrote the paper a nasty, threatening letter and then vindicated himself by his own decision in his own court. Few of us were familiar with the character and conduct of the federal judiciary prior to the packing of the bench by the Roosevelt-Truman administration with political devotees of the Democratic party and weak Republicans. My own opinion, and I dare say the opinion of most of the laity, as of then was, however, that the federal judiciary were, subject to exceptions, which were few and spectacular, unusually high-grade men in three essentials, character, morals and education. This esteem certainly has not been maintained by the new bench and, in this case, Judge Davies' letter to the editor of the Tennessean smacked more of the anger of a roadside J. P. presiding over a speed-trap than of the federal judiciary as it should be.

The spat arose over a command by the judge to a witness who was a Negro to wear a coat to cover his shirt when he was on the stand. The incident occurred last July when Nashville was having hot weather and the paper took the court to task because, it said, the witness had to travel home to Murfreesboro, borrow a coat and return the next day.

Davies promptly wrote a letter to the editor threatening to teach him a lesson by directing the clerk of the court to put the names of "your editors," presumably all of them, into the jury box for the next term. The tone of the letter was undignified and spiteful and Elisha Hanson, chief counsel of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, who went down from Washington to argue a motion to dismiss one summons for grand jury duty, got the rough side of an autocrat's tongue and lost out. The judge crawled, however, to the extent of denying that his threat had actually been carried out. The public was asked to believe that mere coincidence governed the calling of Coleman Harwell, editor, and John H. Nye, associate editor, for the grand and petit juries, respectively, after the letter was published. The public is not required so to believe, however.

Davies wrote: "It is unfortunate that your usual inaccurate reporting caused the writer (if one there was) of the anonymous letter published in the July 15 issue of your paper to be unnecessarily concerned over defendants in this court losing a freedom by being denied the testimony of a coatless witness."

An editorial in the same issue caught up the judge on his implication that witnesses had been described as witnesses for any defendant, and said they had been described merely as "witnesses." The paper also challenged an ensuing statement in the judge's letter that "if it appears that the witness does not have a coat, we are glad to furnish one."

On that point, the Tennessean replied: "That may be the case now. It was not the case when our story and editorial were written," and cited the case already mentioned and another case of a witness who borrowed a coat from an agent of the FBI.

"Our position," the paper said, "was—and remains—that a man in overalls is capable of just as much dignity as a man in a Brooks Brothers suit, or, for that matter, a judge in a black robe. * * * The judge could spend his time much more profitably than in acting as a fashion arbiter. He might, for example, take his own coat off and go to work on the tremendous back-log of cases that have accumulated during his frequent and extended hunting and fishing trips."

Hanson's motion to dismiss Harwell's summons for grand jury duty was argued May 23 with Davies sitting in judgment on the facts of his own case and the propriety of his own conduct. Hanson said the summons was illegal because Davies had no authority to give orders to the clerk to call anyone for jury duty.

"The jury system cannot be made the tool of any individual's purpose whether that purpose springs from lofty or base motives," Hanson argued in his motion. Davies threw the Nye case entirely out of court because Nye had served in another term. He called to the stand Lonnie Ormes, clerk of the court, and asked him questions which elicited a statement that he received from Davies no such order as his letter had threatened to issue. Ormes did say, however, that he had seen the judge's letter in print, but when Hanson asked him if he considered that "sufficient," Davies shut him off.

Hanson apparently intended to ask if Ormes had taken the letter as an order from Davies, but if so, the judge was taking no chances. When Hanson asked Davies point-blank whether he did issue such an order, Davies had the effrontery to say: "That is none of your affair," although that was the

Rabbis Will Probe Kosher Meat Prices

Fallsburgh, June 5 (AP)—Orthodox Jewish rabbis have directed a special commission to make a "sweeping investigation" of reported price gouging in Kosher meat sales.

The Rabbinical Council of America declared yesterday it is "deeply disturbed" by complaints from housewives that retailers are overcharging for Kosher meats.

(Kosher meat is that dressed and handled in conformance with Jewish sanitary and other regulations.)

The council, at the closing session of its 17th annual convention, authorized the inquiry by its Kashruth Commission, made up of 50 Orthodox rabbis from the nation's major cities.

The commission, headed by Rabbi Solomon J. Sharfman, of Brooklyn, was told to make a "sweeping investigation of wholesale and retail meat prices at community levels."

To Start Immediately

Rabbi Sharfman said the probe would be started immediately in cooperation with the council's six regional subdivisions.

"I do not hestitate to say that if we uncover any evidence of fraud, collusion or gouging," he said, "we shall take steps for criminal prosecution of the offenders."

"Those consumers adhering to traditional practice and dietary practice must be fully protected. This is our major concern."

All officers of the council were re-elected unanimously. They are:

President—Rabbi Theodore L. Adams, of Jersey City, N. J.

Vice presidents—Rabbis Louis Engelberg, of Cleveland; David B. Hollander, Bronx, New York; Benjamin Morgenstern, of Brooklyn and Sharfman.

Recording secretary — Rabbi Eugene Cohen, of Averne, Queens, New York.

Treasurer — Rabbi Emanuel Rackman of Far Rockaway, Queens, New York.

Italian law forbids a child to be named after its parent.

GARY "BRINGS DOWN THE HOUSE"—Gary Nelson, 11, of Minneapolis, Minn., isn't one to use words lightly. The people who laughed when he said his rendition of "Chopsticks" would "bring down the house" will have more respect for his musical ability when he shows them this picture. Gary found the piano amid the ruins of a house being torn down by wreckers.

Rattenni Faces Trial for Evasion

Albany, June 5 (AP)—A Yonkers man, reputedly a pal of gambler Frank Costello, today faced trial on a charge of evading income taxes totaling $84,618.

Nicholas A. Rattenni, 47, operator of a trucking business, pleaded innocent yesterday before Judge James T. Foley in Federal District Court.

The government charges that Rattenni filed false and fraudulent income tax returns for the years 1946 through 1950.

A plea of innocent also was entered by Max Lapides, 53, of the Bronx, who is accused of evading payment of a total of $181,165 in income taxes.

Lapides, who is in the wholesale drug business, is charged with filing false returns for the same years.

The cases are not connected.

Foley set no trial dates. He continued $2,500 bail for each of the men, who were indicted May 15 by a federal grand jury in Syracuse.

At the time the indictment was returned, U. S. Attorney Edmund Port described Lapides as a gambler. The Justice Department has described Rattenni as an associate of Costello.

Ways Are Sought To Beat Bootleg

New York, June 5 (AP)—John F. O'Connell, chairman of the New York State Liquor Authority, has announced a series of conferences will be held soon to devise plans to cope with increasing bootleg liquor traffic.

Federal, state and local law enforcement officials will attend the meeting.

The announcement of the exact dates and the invitations "may come from a higher level," O'Connell said at a news conference yesterday. Preliminary discussions already have been held.

The SLA head said bootlegging has risen rapidly during the last five years to its highest peak since prohibition, and the situation "could become catastrophic with any substantial rise in unemployment."

O'Connell placed the chief blame for the rise in bootlegging on high taxes levied on legal liquor. "High taxes have priced legitimate liquor out of the reach of many persons," he said.

Only Conjecture

He said the problem is nationwide, and any estimate on the amount of illegal liquor now being made would be only a conjecture.

O'Connell also told the newsmen:

In addition to high taxes, factors in the bootlegging rise include frequent imposition of fines rather than jail terms, lack of sufficient teeth in the State's Alcholic Beverage Control laws, lack of interest by state and local law enforcers, and lack of speed in prosecutions.

"It has become highly profitable for bootleggers to operate, and they know it."

Fines do not discourage bootleggers, and "the only way a racket is broken up is by sending the principal figures to jail. * * *"

The federal tax on a gallon of 100 proof liquor has risen from $1.10 in 1933 to $10:50, while the New York state tax has risen from $1 to $1.50 a gallon.

As Pegler Sees It

crux of the whole matter whether he had, according to his letter, subverted the jury system, with an explicit threat against free expression in the press, to serve his own spite.

"That is none of your affair," Davies said. "I am not on the witness stand."

This is a flagrant case but only one of many of similar portent to journalism, which by and large ignores the problem. In some cases papers are silenced by fear on the part of their regular lawyers that they will get the works from judges who have been criticized in print for conduct however shocking. Harwell announced that he would serve willingly now that the question of illegal action had been disposed of by Ormes' denial. Davies got himself off the hook by his own, arbitrary self-serving disposition of Hanson's motion, but the charge still stands in the motion still on file that "the direction of the judge was not only in violation of this statute but of the sound public policy. * * * He possesses no such authority, either under the law of the settled jurisprudence of the land."

Soprano Wins Prize

Lausanne, Switzerland, June 5 (AP)—Magdalen Chambers, 25, lyric soprano of 20 Vermont avenue, White Plains, N. Y., won one of the four unanimous first prizes in the annual Lausanne Grand Prix for opera singers yesterday. Miss Chambers won solid acclaim of the nine judges from five countries for her rendering of an aria from Massenet's Manon. More than 100 singers from 19 countries competed for the prize. Miss Chambers studied singing the last seven years under Paul Oldhouse and Hans Heinz in New York and is continuing her studies at Milan under a Fulbright scholarship. She plans to return to the United States in August and appear in fall concerts there.

As Pegler Sees It

crux of the whole matter whether he had, according to his letter, subverted the jury system, with an explicit threat against free expression in the press, to serve his own spite.

"That is none of your affair," Davies said. "I am not on the witness stand."

This is a flagrant case but only one of many of similar portent to journalism, which by and large ignores the problem. In some cases papers are silenced by fear on the part of their regular lawyers that they will get the works from judges who have been criticized in print for conduct however shocking. Harwell announced that he would serve willingly now that the question of illegal action had been disposed of by Ormes' denial. Davies got himself off the hook by his own, arbitrary self-serving disposition of Hanson's motion, but the charge still stands in the motion still on file that "the direction of the judge was not only in violation of this statute but of the sound public policy. * * * He possesses no such authority, either under the law of the settled jurisprudence of the land."

BABSON on BUSINESS

New York, June 4—During the past winter, while in the South, I received many interesting letters which I have saved. Most of these letters can be classified under four headings: (1) Unemployment Insurance, (2) Excess Inventories, (3) Personal Debts and (4) Labor Unions. As these letters come from over 30 different states, they give a cross section of what the average businessman is thinking about.

Unemployment Insurance

For a very subtle reason most businessmen, especially retailers, are not opposed to unemployment insurance. They feel that if a depression comes, these unemployment checks—as well as pensions, old-age assistance and other sources of Government, State and Municipal aid—will be of real help in preventing a business collapse. Doubtless these checks from the public treasury will cushion a decline in their business when unemployment comes. But why have the unemployment?

These letters almost unanimously, however, complain about the present abuse of this unemployment insurance. For instance, in Massachusetts a person who earns approximately $500 in each quarter of a year, or approximately $2,000 a year, is entitled to collect $25 for 23 weeks for unemployment, or $575. But the laws of the various states vary somewhat as to the amount paid and the duration of payment. If these were bona-fide cases, it would not be so bad; but my correspondents claim that a large proportion of these "unemployed" have purposely arranged to get "fired" in order to get this insurance. In other words, it is becoming a fast-growing racket which is upsetting the employment situation, undermining the character of employes and causing an unnecessary drain on public funds. If unemployment offices are not operated by politicians and their friends, officials do seem to be shutting their eyes to this abuse. It should be stopped.

Excess Inventories

John C. Long of Baltimore writes a letter which is typical of many similar letters. He calls attention to the excess inventories which businessmen for various reasons feel obliged to carry. Of course, the future of your community depends, in the long run, on keeping purchasing power and inventories on a reasonable balance.

Such a balanced condition would help to give your community a steady but gradually increasing prosperity. Various suggestions have been made for preventing excessive inventories. One is that the Excess Profits Tax be switched to an Excess Inventories Tax. Surely, some check on excess inventories is needed to avoid a business depression. I hope each merchant will be careful.

Installment Debts

The American people are today indebted for $19.3 billions due on installment purchases. Savings are larger than ever and these should, to a certain extent, serve as an offset. Unfortunately, however, Congress has not given the Federal Reserve System the power to curb consumer credit, and this unnecessarily permits further credit expansion.

A dangerous feature of the situation is that local banks, which refused to loan customers when they were out of employment and needed the money, are now, with higher prices being paid for automobiles, refrigerators, fur coats, etc., encouraging unnecessary borrowing. I hope they will be careful and avoid a policy which would not be good for their community.

Labor Leaders

From almost every state I receive complaints about the arbitrary actions of union labor. My correspondents do not object to the carpenter, painter, plumber, bricklayer, etc., getting more pay. They, however, complain desperately that these workers are not producing what they should and are loafing on the job. The workmen in turn blame the problem on the labor leaders. All of this sets up a vicious circle which sometime must collapse.

I am a great believer in every family having a home, and hence have always encouraged the building and buying of homes. I fear, however, that the present attitude of labor leaders may cause the building boom to collapse. Considering that the building of a small house aids twenty-seven different industries, such a collapse should be avoided.

HEAT DRIVES THEM IN SEINE—With a heat wave making life in Paris uncomfortable, many residents head for a dip in the Seine River to cool off. This young couple stops only to douse their car with water before joining the bathers in background.

Written for NEA Service

The shortest road home is the best in bridge as in anything else. Look for a simple plan to make you contract, and beware of complications.

When today's hand was actually played, South tried to make his contract by "general direction." He won the first trick in dummy with the king of diamonds and returned a low heart towards his queen. What was South's plan for the hand? Nobody will ever know, but it wasn't a good idea.

West won with the king of hearts, noting the fact that his partner had played the nine. West therefore returned a heart, and dummy's finesse of the ten lost to East's jack. East switched suits once more, this time to the king of spades.

Now South's position was pretty hopeless. Whether he took the spade trick or not, he was in a hopeless muddle.

South actually refused the trick, whereupon East switched back to hearts. No matter what declarer did the defenders were bound to get at least three hearts, a spade and a club.

The game contract is easily made if South merely plans his plays carefully at the beginning. After winning the first trick with the king of diamonds, declarer must cash the ace of diamonds, and continue with the ace and queen of clubs.

East takes the king of clubs and returns the king of spades, thus forcing out South's ace. Now declarer can cash the queen of diamonds and discard dummy's jack of clubs. This enables him to stay in his own hand and take the rest of the clubs. Hence South can surely win four clubs, three diamonds, one spade, and one heart.

BABSON on BUSINESS

New York, June 4—During the past winter, while in the South, I received many interesting letters which I have saved. Most of these letters can be classified under four headings: (1) Unemployment Insurance, (2) Excess Inventories, (3) Personal Debts and (4) Labor Unions. As these letters come from over 30 different states, they give a cross section of what the average businessman is thinking about.

Unemployment Insurance

For a very subtle reason most businessmen, especially retailers, are not opposed to unemployment insurance. They feel that if a depression comes, these unemployment checks—as well as pensions, old-age assistance and other sources of Government, State and Municipal aid—will be of real help in preventing a business collapse. Doubtless these checks from the public treasury will cushion a decline in their business when unemployment comes. But why have the unemployment?

These letters almost unanimously, however, complain about the present abuse of this unemployment insurance. For instance, in Massachusetts a person who earns approximately $500 in each quarter of a year, or approximately $2,000 a year, is entitled to collect $25 for 23 weeks for unemployment, or $575. But the laws of the various states vary somewhat as to the amount paid and the duration of payment. If these were bona-fide cases, it would not be so bad; but my correspondents claim that a large proportion of these "unemployed" have purposely arranged to get "fired" in order to get this insurance. In other words, it is becoming a fast-growing racket which is upsetting the employment situation, undermining the character of employes and causing an unnecessary drain on public funds. If unemployment offices are not operated by politicians and their friends, officials do seem to be shutting their eyes to this abuse. It should be stopped.

Excess Inventories

John C. Long of Baltimore writes a letter which is typical of many similar letters. He calls attention to the excess inventories which businessmen for various reasons feel obliged to carry. Of course, the future of your community depends, in the long run, on keeping purchasing power and inventories on a reasonable balance.

Such a balanced condition would help to give your community a steady but gradually increasing prosperity. Various suggestions have been made for preventing excessive inventories. One is that the Excess Profits Tax be switched to an Excess Inventories Tax. Surely, some check on excess inventories is needed to avoid a business depression. I hope each merchant will be careful.

Installment Debts

The American people are today indebted for $19.3 billions due on installment purchases. Savings are larger than ever and these should, to a certain extent, serve as an offset. Unfortunately, however, Congress has not given the Federal Reserve System the power to curb consumer credit, and this unnecessarily permits further credit expansion.

A dangerous feature of the situation is that local banks, which refused to loan customers when they were out of employment and needed the money, are now, with higher prices being paid for automobiles, refrigerators, fur coats, etc., encouraging unnecessary borrowing. I hope they will be careful and avoid a policy which would not be good for their community.

Labor Leaders

From almost every state I receive complaints about the arbitrary actions of union labor. My correspondents do not object to the carpenter, painter, plumber, bricklayer, etc., getting more pay. They, however, complain desperately that these workers are not producing what they should and are loafing on the job. The workmen in turn blame the problem on the labor leaders. All of this sets up a vicious circle which sometime must collapse.

I am a great believer in every family having a home, and hence have always encouraged the building and buying of homes. I fear, however, that the present attitude of labor leaders may cause the building boom to collapse. Considering that the building of a small house aids twenty-seven different industries, such a collapse should be avoided.

HEAT DRIVES THEM IN SEINE—With a heat wave making life in Paris uncomfortable, many residents head for a dip in the Seine River to cool off. This young couple stops only to douse their car with water before joining the bathers in background.

The shortest road home is the best in bridge as in anything else. Look for a simple plan to make you contract, and beware of complications.

When today's hand was actually played, South tried to make his contract by "general direction." He won the first trick in dummy with the king of diamonds and returned a low heart towards his queen. What was South's plan for the hand? Nobody will ever know, but it wasn't a good idea.

West won with the king of hearts, noting the fact that his partner had played the nine. West therefore returned a heart, and dummy's finesse of the ten lost to East's jack. East switched suits once more, this time to the king of spades.

Now South's position was pretty hopeless. Whether he took the spade trick or not, he was in a hopeless muddle.

South actually refused the trick, whereupon East switched back to hearts. No matter what declarer did the defenders were bound to get at least three hearts, a spade and a club.

The game contract is easily made if South merely plans his plays carefully at the beginning. After winning the first trick with the king of diamonds, declarer must cash the ace of diamonds, and continue with the ace and queen of clubs.

East takes the king of clubs and returns the king of spades, thus forcing out South's ace. Now declarer can cash the queen of diamonds and discard dummy's jack of clubs. This enables him to stay in his own hand and take the rest of the clubs. Hence South can surely win four clubs, three diamonds, one spade, and one heart.

Three Are Charged With House Thefts

New York, June 5 (AP)—Bronx detectives, who became suspicious when three young men carried a quantity of household goods from an automobile to a pawnshop, got confessions from them early today that they had burglarized a house in New Rochelle, N. Y., police said.

Americo Terlizzi, 22, of 243 Meadowbrook road, Merrick, N. Y.; Anthony Bonavoglia, 21, of 2323 Cambreling avenue, the Bronx, and Michael Sylvestri, 19, of 2339 Prospect avenue, the Bronx, were booked on charges of receiving stolen goods, since the alleged burglary did not occur in New York city.

The house alleged to have been broken into about 2 p. m. yesterday is that of Dumont Bunker, of Chelsea road, New Rochelle.

$10,000 in Goods

Detectives Charles Donat, John Tracy and Martin Walsh said they became interested when the trio drove up to a pawnshop at 506 East Tremont avenue in an automobile which contained $10,000 worth of items, including silverware, jewelry, a typewriter, vacuum cleaner, golf clubs, juicer, toaster, and and electric mixer.

The detectives began questioning the men at 5 p. m. yesterday and finished at 1:30 a. m. today. They said the men admitted jimmying a rear entrance of the Bunker residence. All three are on probation after previous grand larceny convictions, according to police.

The detectives said Sylvester also admitted working alone as an automobile burglar, and that he led them to a furnished room at 2391 Grand Concourse and showed them loot including salesmen's clothing samples valued at $2,000, bolts of cloth, cases of toothpaste and eight strings of pearls.

China Faces Famine

Hong Kong, June 5 (AP)—Three big rivers in China's Kwangtung Province are out of their banks and reports from the Communist mainland indicate the flood-famine crisis in South China may be the worst since 1947. The West, East and North rivers all were reported flooding in Kwangtung and some sources said at least 30 per cent of the province's rich rice lands were inundated.

Pleads No Defense

New York, June 5 (AP)—Frank Erickson, once a kingpin bookmaker, has pleaded no defense to an income tax evasion charge, and is to be sentenced June 16. He could get up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Erickson, 56, now serving a 12 to 14-month term in New Jersey for violating gambling laws, yesterday changed his plea from innocent to evading $75,630 in taxes in 1945. He switched his plea on condition the government drop the second count of the indictment charging evasion of an additional $70,987 in taxes in 1946. The prosecution agreed.

Three Are Charged With House Thefts

New York, June 5 (AP)—Bronx detectives, who became suspicious when three young men carried a quantity of household goods from an automobile to a pawnshop, got confessions from them early today that they had burglarized a house in New Rochelle, N. Y., police said.

Americo Terlizzi, 22, of 243 Meadowbrook road, Merrick, N. Y.; Anthony Bonavoglia, 21, of 2323 Cambreling avenue, the Bronx, and Michael Sylvestri, 19, of 2339 Prospect avenue, the Bronx, were booked on charges of receiving stolen goods, since the alleged burglary did not occur in New York city.

The house alleged to have been broken into about 2 p. m. yesterday is that of Dumont Bunker, of Chelsea road, New Rochelle.

$10,000 in Goods

Detectives Charles Donat, John Tracy and Martin Walsh said they became interested when the trio drove up to a pawnshop at 506 East Tremont avenue in an automobile which contained $10,000 worth of items, including silverware, jewelry, a typewriter, vacuum cleaner, golf clubs, juicer, toaster, and and electric mixer.

The detectives began questioning the men at 5 p. m. yesterday and finished at 1:30 a. m. today. They said the men admitted jimmying a rear entrance of the Bunker residence. All three are on probation after previous grand larceny convictions, according to police.

The detectives said Sylvester also admitted working alone as an automobile burglar, and that he led them to a furnished room at 2391 Grand Concourse and showed them loot including salesmen's clothing samples valued at $2,000, bolts of cloth, cases of toothpaste and eight strings of pearls.

China Faces Famine

Hong Kong, June 5 (AP)—Three big rivers in China's Kwangtung Province are out of their banks and reports from the Communist mainland indicate the flood-famine crisis in South China may be the worst since 1947. The West, East and North rivers all were reported flooding in Kwangtung and some sources said at least 30 per cent of the province's rich rice lands were inundated.

Pleads No Defense

New York, June 5 (AP)—Frank Erickson, once a kingpin bookmaker, has pleaded no defense to an income tax evasion charge, and is to be sentenced June 16. He could get up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Erickson, 56, now serving a 12 to 14-month term in New Jersey for violating gambling laws, yesterday changed his plea from innocent to evading $75,630 in taxes in 1945. He switched his plea on condition the government drop the second count of the indictment charging evasion of an additional $70,987 in taxes in 1946. The prosecution agreed.

The canary, popular caged songbird, takes its name from its native locale, the Canary Islands. The name stems from "canis," Latin for dog, perhaps because of the doghead shape of Tenerife, largest isle of this Spanish group in the Atlantic.

MOTHER-IN-LAW SITUATION

The following letter, I am sorry to say, describes a not-at-all-unusual situation: "In a recent answer to a young bride living with her mother-in-law, who asked whether she had to invite her to join them when their own friends came in to see them, you said if there was only one sitting room, the mother-in-law could hardly be expected to go off by herself and sit in her bedroom. Don't you think, Mrs. Post, the mother-in-law should have the good sense to excuse herself and leave them? My mother-in-law lives with us—not we with her. Whenever we have company she joins right in, taking over most of the conversation. We would like to be able to see our friends alone sometimes but it is impossible. In fact, many of our friends do not visit us as often as they used to because of this. I would very much like to have your opinion of the other side of this story."

I am truly sorry to be unable to give a happy solution to this very distressing situation. My very best suggestion is to furnish her bedroom as a sitting room, with television, if possible to afford it. With such a room to sit in, it is hard to imagine that she would not prefer to stay in it when you have friends who certainly have done nothing to make her enjoy their company.

Seeking First Job

Dear Mrs. Post: I will be graduating the end of this month and expect to look for a job soon afterwards. I would appreciate your answering the following two questions: (1) When I go to an office for an interview, shall I offer to shake hands with a man or woman? (2) Do I have to remain standing throughout the interview if I am not asked to sit down?

Answer: (1) No. Shaking hands is not usual. In any case you must wait for the one who receives you to offer his—or her—hand. (2) Yes.

Table Setting

Dear Mrs. Post: When setting the table, is there any rule as to which way the blade of the knife should be facing? In other words, should the cutting edge be toward the plate or away from the plate?

Answer: Toward the plate.

Young people write Mrs. Post about manners in their groups. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-11 is a question-and-answer list for boys and girls of high-school age. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Kate Walton Field House

The Kate Walton Field House was officially opened Thursday when a public inspection was held. The spacious field house will be used for the physical education program of Kingston High School, including the indoor sports events. Preceding the inspection, a cafeteria supper, sponsored by the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis Clubs was held in the new remodeled high school cafeteria. (Freeman Photo)

New Field House Is Opened For Inspection of Public

The Kate Walton Field House near Kingston High School was officially opened Thursday night with public inspection following a dinner at the high school cafeteria attended by members of Kingston's three service clubs, their guests, and others.

During the evening, a free concert was given in the field house by the Kingston High School band under the direction of M. E. Morrette. The band, in its final appearance of the season, played a number of marches as well as popular songs. Twirling exhibitions were given by the drum majorette corps.

About 350 persons attended the dinner, sponsored by the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs. Several hundred more visited the field house and other buildings in the educational center during the evening.

Members of the Key Club, a high school service organization sponsored by Kiwanis, served as guides and assisted in pouring coffee during the dinner. Senior class girls assisted the regular cafeteria staff in serving the dinner.

The vocational building and the Myron J. Michael School were open for public inspection along with the new field house. At the vocational building, shop students served as guides and conducted several demonstration classes. For many, Thursday night was also their first opportunity to see the new, well-equipped cafeteria and dining room in the high school, which was completed last fall using the basement room formerly used as a gymnasium for the high school.

Taft Requests

Secretary of State Acheson, who some critics say permitted UN Allies to overrule a decision by the U. S. joint chiefs of staff that the U. S. planes should pursue attacking Communist aircraft across the Yalu river border between Korea and Manchuria.

Taft said the military alliance course had been followed in Europe in formation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). He said there was no reason why such a plan could not be used in the Pacific.

Taft said the UN Security Council had not acted on the Korean War since July 31, 1951, and that the General Assembly never had "any power except to discuss and make recommendations." He commented that the UN serves "a very useful purpose as a town meeting on the world * * * but it is an impossible weapon against forcible aggression."

"Look at the present situation," Taft continued. "This war is presumably being fought under the direction of the committee of the General Assembly of the United Nations against Communist China, denounced by the General Assembly as an aggressor on Oct. 7, 1950.

"But on the committees concerned with the war are India and many other countries which say they are not on the side of the United Nations at all, but are neutral in the fight."

Anger Might Be Cause

Cleveland, June 5 (AP)—Take another look at that so-called fat man. His size may be due to anger. A New York psychiatrist, Dr. Elias Savitsky, presented that explanation of obesity yesterday at the national conference of social work here. He said modern psychiatrists have discovered fat people are not jolly at all, but "are actually taking out their hostility and unresolved aggressions by means of oral aggression"—eating too much and too often.

Kate Walton Field House

The Kate Walton Field House was officially opened Thursday when a public inspection was held. The spacious field house will be used for the physical education program of Kingston High School, including the indoor sports events. Preceding the inspection, a cafeteria supper, sponsored by the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis Clubs was held in the new remodeled high school cafeteria. (Freeman Photo)

New Field House Is Opened For Inspection of Public

The Kate Walton Field House near Kingston High School was officially opened Thursday night with public inspection following a dinner at the high school cafeteria attended by members of Kingston's three service clubs, their guests, and others.

During the evening, a free concert was given in the field house by the Kingston High School band under the direction of M. E. Morrette. The band, in its final appearance of the season, played a number of marches as well as popular songs. Twirling exhibitions were given by the drum majorette corps.

About 350 persons attended the dinner, sponsored by the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs. Several hundred more visited the field house and other buildings in the educational center during the evening.

Members of the Key Club, a high school service organization sponsored by Kiwanis, served as guides and assisted in pouring coffee during the dinner. Senior class girls assisted the regular cafeteria staff in serving the dinner.

The vocational building and the Myron J. Michael School were open for public inspection along with the new field house. At the vocational building, shop students served as guides and conducted several demonstration classes. For many, Thursday night was also their first opportunity to see the new, well-equipped cafeteria and dining room in the high school, which was completed last fall using the basement room formerly used as a gymnasium for the high school.

Taft Requests

Secretary of State Acheson, who some critics say permitted UN Allies to overrule a decision by the U. S. joint chiefs of staff that the U. S. planes should pursue attacking Communist aircraft across the Yalu river border between Korea and Manchuria.

Taft said the military alliance course had been followed in Europe in formation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). He said there was no reason why such a plan could not be used in the Pacific.

Taft said the UN Security Council had not acted on the Korean War since July 31, 1951, and that the General Assembly never had "any power except to discuss and make recommendations." He commented that the UN serves "a very useful purpose as a town meeting on the world * * * but it is an impossible weapon against forcible aggression."

"Look at the present situation," Taft continued. "This war is presumably being fought under the direction of the committee of the General Assembly of the United Nations against Communist China, denounced by the General Assembly as an aggressor on Oct. 7, 1950.

"But on the committees concerned with the war are India and many other countries which say they are not on the side of the United Nations at all, but are neutral in the fight."

Anger Might Be Cause

Cleveland, June 5 (AP)—Take another look at that so-called fat man. His size may be due to anger. A New York psychiatrist, Dr. Elias Savitsky, presented that explanation of obesity yesterday at the national conference of social work here. He said modern psychiatrists have discovered fat people are not jolly at all, but "are actually taking out their hostility and unresolved aggressions by means of oral aggression"—eating too much and too often.

Ginny Gets Divorce

Santa Monica, Calif., June 5 (AP)—Singer Ginny Simms has a divorce decree today from her second husband, oilman Robert M. Calhoun, 34. Miss Simms, also 34, charging cruelty, testified yesterday that her husband of less than a year told her he was "just a bachelor at heart and didn't think he should have assumed the responsibility of marriage." Married last June 27 in Las Vegas, Nev., the couple separated May 6.

Merchants Shade Indians, 4-3, for Third Straight Victory

Four-Run First Inning Decides City League Tilt

Telepas Gains Win In Relief; Brown HRs

The Colonial Merchants once the doormat of the City Baseball League stand proudly in first place today, winners of three straight and confidently awaiting the future.

They grabbed a battle of three-hitters between their Tex Brown and George Telepas and the Indians' Bill Peterson, 4 to 3, yesterday in the best played game of the campaign.

Peterson was rocked for four runs in the first frame but recovered and pitched shutout ball for the next five innings.

Brown yielded a 1-0 lead in the first frame and was lifted in favor of George Telepas, the KHS southpaw ace, after facing two batters in the third inning. Telepas gave up two hits and two runs for the remainder of the game and was credited with his first win.

Brown Raps Homer

Brown, deprived of the victory by the official rules of scoring, made a vital contribution to the Merchants' cause by spanking a three-run homer to deep left field in the first inning. The ball soared over Fred Orr's head and was lost in the weeds which are quite prolific in the outfield.

Earlier, the Merchants had assaulted Peterson for Eric Georcke's single to left and the first run on Chuck Engle's triple to right. Like Brown's homer, it was something of a fluke as the ball bounced over D. Smith's head in right field. Ward Dunham walked, Joe Carlino flied to short right, and Brown smashed his homer.

Indians opened up quickly on Brown, scoring a run by the time honored methods. Orr walked, advanced on a sacrifice and rode home on Gordon's single.

Telepas Sparkles

Telepas relieved Brown after successive walks to Orr and Smith and promptly fanned Gordon. An infield out and pop fly took the Merchants out of the jam.

Two innings later, the Indians picked up two runs on Link Crosby's bases-loaded double. Peterson singled, Smith walked and Gordon reached first on an error to jam the bags. After Crosby's slam, Telepas retired Emerson on a tap to the box and fanned Havlin for the third out.

Press Box Notes: The six hits went to six different players. Link Crosby, batting in the clean-up slot, doubled for the Indians. Peterson pitched brilliant ball after the first inning and with any luck on the slams by Brown and Engle would have come out with no more than two runs against him. The Indians are improving with each game. They lost their opener to Jones Dairy, 9-1. Then came a 7-4 loss to Wiltwyck and this time they extend the league leaders to 4-3. By mathematical progression they should win the next time out, which will be a week hence. Wiltwyck Motors, only other unbeaten team in the circuit, 2-0, take on the Doblers Tuesday and Jones Dairy on Wednesday:

Curt Simmons Lost To Phils Three Weeks After Mower Accident

Philadelphia, June 5 (AP)—A red-hot National League pennant race took on a new complexion for the Philadelphia Phillies today, all because Robin Roberts' next-door neighbor caught his foot in a power lawn mower.

The guy next door—lefthanded fellow by the name of Curt Simmons—happens to be Robbie's other half of one of the best one-two pitching combinations in baseball.

Roberts brought the doleful news to the clubhouse yesterday.

Curt won't be able to go for the Phillies for at least three weeks.

The young southpaw sporting a 7-4 record for the present campaign, slipped while pushing a power mower across his lawn in suburban Meadowbrook and the whirling blades bit deep into the flesh of his foot, going to the bone in his big toe and severely lacerating the other toes.

Simmons was treated at Abington Memorial Hospital and told to remain overnight, and in seclusion—no interviews, said his doctor.

Simmons' injury was to his pivot-foot, the foot that gives Curt the drive for that rubber-armed fast ball that is tough for a batter to see when the lanky lefthander is in top form.

St. Mary's Seeks Second Win Over St. Peter's Nine

Baseball teams representing St. Peter's Holy Name and St. Mary's will meet in the second game of their three-game series Sunday at 2 p. m. at St. Mary's diamond, Foxhall and Flatbush avenues.

St. Mary's won the opener, 6-0, at Block Park last week behind the brilliant pitching of Big Jack Houghtaling, who is expected to start Sunday.

Bob Maines, star of the KHS jayvee nine, is the probable Holy Name starter and Manager Schatzel predicts that his team will tie the series.

St. Mary's parish team is interested in playing games throughout the mid-Hudson area and any teams in the 14-18 age bracket interested in booking St. Mary's are requested to write to William Guldy, 29 Rogers street, Kingston, or phone 5711-J.

Tommy Sickler's 562 Leads Electrol Loop

Other high shooters were Mike Milano 212-540; W. Randall 213-517; John Raible 499; J. O'Rourke 491; W. Lambert 490; Fred Zimmerman 485; George Barringer 481; Charlie Milano 479 and Charles Rinaldi 465.

Wes Westrum of the Giants set an International League record in 1949 by hitting five grand slam homers. Yet he played in only 51 games. He was called by the Giants in mid-season.

Two Top Bouts Featured by Spectacular KOs

Vince Martinez Is Guest Referee

In contrast to the first card about a month ago, only four of the scheduled eight contests ended in knockouts.

Kithcart Wins

Kithcart scored a technical knockout over William Onderdonk, 118, of Catskill in 55 seconds of the third round. Using a long right counter to the midsection, Kithcart had the Greene county mauler out on his feet at the end of the second round and wrapped him up quickly in the final session. Referee Joe Vozdik stopped the fight with Onderdonk on his feet, groggy and outclassed.

The New Yorker gave Bailey a terrific raking to the midsection in the first heat and the Albanian barely made it. The knockout came in spectacular fashion. A short right that travelled no more than a foot clipped Bailey along the ropes. The Albany boxer pitched forward, face first to the canvas and landed squarely on his chin.

The combination right and two-point landing rendered Bailey hors de combat for several minutes. He was given smelling salts and treated by Dr. Anthony Mauceri, the attending physician and was able to leave the ring under his own power.

Cira Stopped

Coley Wallace and Floyd Patterson, the heavyweight contenders, failed to make an appearance.

Five Rounders

Richard Woods, 138, New York, outpointed Ray Holland, 140, Albany.

Three Rounders

William Costello, 136, Kingston, stopped Bill Plummer, 139, Waterford, in the third round.

Carl Leone, 132, Utica, won decision over Marty Durkin, 135, Providence.

Mrs. E. LeFevre Captures Low Net

Prizes for the Wiltwyck Golf Club Ladies' Day tournament Wednesday were won by Mrs. Ernest Le Fevre for low net, Mrs. Ivan Whitmore for low putts and Mrs. Frank Prior for a special contest on the sixth hole.

The next event scheduled will be Ladies' Night June 10 commencing at 5 p. m., with Miss Mayme Hutton in charge. Following the play there will be a special meeting to complete plans for a Day of Golf. All members are urged to attend.

Esopus Giants Edge Yankees For First Win

Esopus Giants scored their first victory of the season by shading the Yankees, 7-6, yesterday at Ross Field in Port Ewen.

Big blast of the game was Al MacIntosh's three-run homer for the Yankees in the first inning. It was a record blast for the Town of Esopus circuit, soaring more than 225 feet over the left centerfield fence.

The Esopus diamond extends to 205 at that point and the ball cleared the barrier with plenty to spare. He also poled a long triple.

Giants outhit the Yankees, 9-6, behind Harry Kearse's 11-strikeout pitching. Fred Soehlein and MacIntosh shared the Yankees chores and fanned seven between them.

Besides MacIntosh's circuit clout, there were doubles by Charlie Brooks, Richie Wenzel, Emory LeMay, Rolfe Krukas and Fred Soehlein.

Tigers Take Over Lead in National LL

They drubbed the Braves, 16 to 5, yesterday at the Hasbrouck diamond, scoring in every inning and collecting 8 hits and five walks. By the end of the third frame they led, 13-2.

Charlie Blanschan stopped the Braves with three hits, fanned six and walked eight. It was the second loss in four starts for the Braves and the Tigers' second victory in three outings. They play the last place Pirates today.

No Extra Basers

Surprisingly, there were no extra base blows in the scoring feast which was terminated by darkness at the end of five innings. The Tigers reeled off tallies like telephone numbers—6-3-5-1-1.

Gene Spada, batting No. 8, collected three singles in four trips for the Tigers. John Hobert and Abe Levy stroked two hits apiece and Blanschan came up with the other.

Blanschan spaced the three Braves safeties among three different players—Henry Schatzel, Richie Hoffman and Ray Radel.

Giants Upset Yankees, 6-5 In American

Beaten four times running, the Giants of the American League, upset the league-leading Yankees, 6 to 5, yesterday at the 156th FA stadium.

The loss dropped the Yankees out of a first place tie with the Red Sox, who are now out in front by themselves at three wins and one loss.

Joe Clark was the victim in the bottom of the sixth, after the Yankees had rallied for three runs in the fifth to tie the score at 5-5. The Giants rushed four runs across the plate in the third.

Get Only Two Hits

The surprise development was the Giants racking up six runs on only two hits off Clark, who walked five and fanned four. Loose play by the Yankees aided in his downfall.

Yankees had five hits off Timmy Fisher, including a double by Clark. Fisher struck out seven and walked four and got one of the two Giant safeties. The other went to Joe Uhl.

Victor Locke, John Melchior, Charlie Tiano and Pete Zeeh were credited with the Yankee hits.

OnteoraBeats Kerhonkson In Last Game

Onteora Central closed out its baseball schedule with a 4-3 triumph over Kerhonkson High and a new strikeout record for "Bunky" Harrison.

The Indian flinger fanned 14 Kerhonkson batters in pitching a three-hitter. He had a one-hit job going until the seventh when the losers bunched two hits and a couple of walks for two runs.

The win was the fourth in ten games for Coach Ed Witko's charges, who picked up two runs in the first and were never headed.

Purcell, the Kerhonkson pitcher, permitted only four safeties, including a triple by Beesmer and Fister's double. Both hits knocked in important tallies.

No player on either side collected more than one hit. The Onteora safeties, besides the triple and double, were singles by Foster and Sedlmeir.

Merchants Shade Indians, 4-3, for Third Straight Victory

Four-Run First Inning Decides City League Tilt

Telepas Gains Win In Relief; Brown HRs

The Colonial Merchants once the doormat of the City Baseball League stand proudly in first place today, winners of three straight and confidently awaiting the future.

They grabbed a battle of three-hitters between their Tex Brown and George Telepas and the Indians' Bill Peterson, 4 to 3, yesterday in the best played game of the campaign.

Peterson was rocked for four runs in the first frame but recovered and pitched shutout ball for the next five innings.

Brown yielded a 1-0 lead in the first frame and was lifted in favor of George Telepas, the KHS southpaw ace, after facing two batters in the third inning. Telepas gave up two hits and two runs for the remainder of the game and was credited with his first win.

Brown Raps Homer

Brown, deprived of the victory by the official rules of scoring, made a vital contribution to the Merchants' cause by spanking a three-run homer to deep left field in the first inning. The ball soared over Fred Orr's head and was lost in the weeds which are quite prolific in the outfield.

Earlier, the Merchants had assaulted Peterson for Eric Georcke's single to left and the first run on Chuck Engle's triple to right. Like Brown's homer, it was something of a fluke as the ball bounced over D. Smith's head in right field. Ward Dunham walked, Joe Carlino flied to short right, and Brown smashed his homer.

Indians opened up quickly on Brown, scoring a run by the time honored methods. Orr walked, advanced on a sacrifice and rode home on Gordon's single.

Telepas Sparkles

Telepas relieved Brown after successive walks to Orr and Smith and promptly fanned Gordon. An infield out and pop fly took the Merchants out of the jam.

Two innings later, the Indians picked up two runs on Link Crosby's bases-loaded double. Peterson singled, Smith walked and Gordon reached first on an error to jam the bags. After Crosby's slam, Telepas retired Emerson on a tap to the box and fanned Havlin for the third out.

Press Box Notes: The six hits went to six different players. Link Crosby, batting in the clean-up slot, doubled for the Indians. Peterson pitched brilliant ball after the first inning and with any luck on the slams by Brown and Engle would have come out with no more than two runs against him. The Indians are improving with each game. They lost their opener to Jones Dairy, 9-1. Then came a 7-4 loss to Wiltwyck and this time they extend the league leaders to 4-3. By mathematical progression they should win the next time out, which will be a week hence. Wiltwyck Motors, only other unbeaten team in the circuit, 2-0, take on the Doblers Tuesday and Jones Dairy on Wednesday:

Curt Simmons Lost To Phils Three Weeks After Mower Accident

Philadelphia, June 5 (AP)—A red-hot National League pennant race took on a new complexion for the Philadelphia Phillies today, all because Robin Roberts' next-door neighbor caught his foot in a power lawn mower.

The guy next door—lefthanded fellow by the name of Curt Simmons—happens to be Robbie's other half of one of the best one-two pitching combinations in baseball.

Roberts brought the doleful news to the clubhouse yesterday.

Curt won't be able to go for the Phillies for at least three weeks.

The young southpaw sporting a 7-4 record for the present campaign, slipped while pushing a power mower across his lawn in suburban Meadowbrook and the whirling blades bit deep into the flesh of his foot, going to the bone in his big toe and severely lacerating the other toes.

Simmons was treated at Abington Memorial Hospital and told to remain overnight, and in seclusion—no interviews, said his doctor.

Simmons' injury was to his pivot-foot, the foot that gives Curt the drive for that rubber-armed fast ball that is tough for a batter to see when the lanky lefthander is in top form.

The only fighter to win the heavyweight championship on a foul was Max Schmeling. He defeated Jack Sharkey, June 12, 1930 in New York.

St. Mary's Seeks Second Win Over St. Peter's Nine

Baseball teams representing St. Peter's Holy Name and St. Mary's will meet in the second game of their three-game series Sunday at 2 p. m. at St. Mary's diamond, Foxhall and Flatbush avenues.

St. Mary's won the opener, 6-0, at Block Park last week behind the brilliant pitching of Big Jack Houghtaling, who is expected to start Sunday.

Bob Maines, star of the KHS jayvee nine, is the probable Holy Name starter and Manager Schatzel predicts that his team will tie the series.

St. Mary's parish team is interested in playing games throughout the mid-Hudson area and any teams in the 14-18 age bracket interested in booking St. Mary's are requested to write to William Guldy, 29 Rogers street, Kingston, or phone 5711-J.

Tommy Sickler's 562 Leads Electrol Loop

Tommy Sickler's 562 triple was top score in last night's session of the Electrol Summer League. He reeled off solos of 200-200-162.

Other high shooters were Mike Milano 212-540; W. Randall 213-517; John Raible 499; J. O'Rourke 491; W. Lambert 490; Fred Zimmerman 485; George Barringer 481; Charlie Milano 479 and Charles Rinaldi 465.

Wes Westrum of the Giants set an International League record in 1949 by hitting five grand slam homers. Yet he played in only 51 games. He was called by the Giants in mid-season.

Two Top Bouts Featured by Spectacular KOs

Vince Martinez Is Guest Referee

Amateur boxing made its second stand of the season last night at the municipal auditorium, with about 400 fans looking on as the two top bouts ended in spectacular knockouts.

Alvin Stevens, 155, of the New York Golden Gloves team, starched Danny Bailey, 152, of Albany, in 55 seconds of the second round of the main event.

The five-round semi-final ended abruptly at 1:58 of the session when Joe Thomas, 146, New York, the best-looking fighter on the card, stopped capable Danny Cira, 144, Albany, with a sweeping left to the solar plexus.

In contrast to the first card about a month ago, only four of the scheduled eight contests ended in knockouts.

Kithcart Wins

From a local standpoint, the brilliant showing of Eddie Kithcart, Adirondack AAU 118-pound Novice kingpin, was the real highlight of the show.

Kithcart scored a technical knockout over William Onderdonk, 118, of Catskill in 55 seconds of the third round. Using a long right counter to the midsection, Kithcart had the Greene county mauler out on his feet at the end of the second round and wrapped him up quickly in the final session. Referee Joe Vozdik stopped the fight with Onderdonk on his feet, groggy and outclassed.

Bailey, substituting for the ailing Jimmy Voss, who was introduced from the ring, was in over his head against the power-punching Stevens.

The New Yorker gave Bailey a terrific raking to the midsection in the first heat and the Albanian barely made it. The knockout came in spectacular fashion. A short right that travelled no more than a foot clipped Bailey along the ropes. The Albany boxer pitched forward, face first to the canvas and landed squarely on his chin.

The combination right and two-point landing rendered Bailey hors de combat for several minutes. He was given smelling salts and treated by Dr. Anthony Mauceri, the attending physician and was able to leave the ring under his own power.

Cira Stopped

Cira was fighting a losing battle but didn't appear in any real danger until the New Yorker tagged him with a sweeping left to the solar plexus. Cira dropped to the canvas in agony and took the full count, wide awake but paralyzed by the blow.

Vince Martinez, the welterweight contender from Paterson, N. J., made a personal appearance and refereed the first round of the duel between Ray Holland of Albany and Richard Wood of New York.

Coley Wallace and Floyd Patterson, the heavyweight contenders, failed to make an appearance.

Five Rounders

Richard Woods, 138, New York, outpointed Ray Holland, 140, Albany.

Three Rounders

Frank Spenzaro, 142, Albany, outpointed Charlie Miller, 142, Catskill.

William Costello, 136, Kingston, stopped Bill Plummer, 139, Waterford, in the third round.

Carl Leone, 132, Utica, won decision over Marty Durkin, 135, Providence.

Mrs. E. LeFevre Captures Low Net

Prizes for the Wiltwyck Golf Club Ladies' Day tournament Wednesday were won by Mrs. Ernest Le Fevre for low net, Mrs. Ivan Whitmore for low putts and Mrs. Frank Prior for a special contest on the sixth hole.

EsopusGiants Edge Yankees For First Win

Esopus Giants scored their first victory of the season by shading the Yankees, 7-6, yesterday at Ross Field in Port Ewen.

Big blast of the game was Al MacIntosh's three-run homer for the Yankees in the first inning. It was a record blast for the Town of Esopus circuit, soaring more than 225 feet over the left centerfield fence.

The Esopus diamond extends to 205 at that point and the ball cleared the barrier with plenty to spare. He also poled a long triple.

Giants outhit the Yankees, 9-6, behind Harry Kearse's 11-strikeout pitching. Fred Soehlein and MacIntosh shared the Yankees chores and fanned seven between them.

Besides MacIntosh's circuit clout, there were doubles by Charlie Brooks, Richie Wenzel, Emory LeMay, Rolfe Krukas and Fred Soehlein.

Tigers Take Over Lead in National LL

The Tigers have taken over the National Little League leadership and from the looks of their batting power they may stay on top for a long while.

They drubbed the Braves, 16 to 5, yesterday at the Hasbrouck diamond, scoring in every inning and collecting 8 hits and five walks. By the end of the third frame they led, 13-2.

Charlie Blanschan stopped the Braves with three hits, fanned six and walked eight. It was the second loss in four starts for the Braves and the Tigers' second victory in three outings. They play the last place Pirates today.

No Extra Basers

Surprisingly, there were no extra base blows in the scoring feast which was terminated by darkness at the end of five innings. The Tigers reeled off tallies like telephone numbers—6-3-5-1-1.

Gene Spada, batting No. 8, collected three singles in four trips for the Tigers. John Hobert and Abe Levy stroked two hits apiece and Blanschan came up with the other.

Blanschan spaced the three Braves safeties among three different players—Henry Schatzel, Richie Hoffman and Ray Radel.

OnteoraBeats Kerhonkson In Last Game

Onteora Central closed out its baseball schedule with a 4-3 triumph over Kerhonkson High and a new strikeout record for "Bunky" Harrison.

The Indian flinger fanned 14 Kerhonkson batters in pitching a three-hitter. He had a one-hit job going until the seventh when the losers bunched two hits and a couple of walks for two runs.

The win was the fourth in ten games for Coach Ed Witko's charges, who picked up two runs in the first and were never headed.

Purcell, the Kerhonkson pitcher, permitted only four safeties, including a triple by Beesmer and Fister's double. Both hits knocked in important tallies.

No player on either side collected more than one hit. The Onteora safeties, besides the triple and double, were singles by Foster and Sedlmeir.

*Played one tie game.

Powered by a 17-hit attack, Beichert's Studies remained in second place a game behind the league-leading Subway Grill this week by pounding out a 13 to 3 victory over the win-less Sickler's Delivery.

In other contests, the VFW broke into the victory column for the first time this year with a 6 to 4 decision over the Hilltoppers while the Alpine Climbers took a 10-5 triumph over the Esopus Legion. In the other scheduled game, Subway Grill and Lincoln Park Inn wound up in a 10-10 deadlock after eight innings of play.

Lindhurst Is Hot

Ray Lindhurst, first sacker for Beicherts, sparked his club in the hitting column with four bingles in five trips, one a double. The first baseman also slugged across eight runs.

Beicherts piled up a 8-0 lead before Sicklers found the prescription of scoring runs in the bottom half of the third with a single tally. Beicherts scored at least one run every inning except the seventh.

Ed Decker went all the way for Beicherts and helped his own cause with two hits. He checked Sicklers with six hits.

Locked in a 4-4 tie, the VFW pushed across two runs in the top half of the eighth inning to turn back the Hilltoppers, 6-4.

Crespino, Ashdown and Amato each collected a pair of safeties for the winners. Bailey, Hobert and McGrane collected a brace of hits for the Hilltop squad. Scribner was credited with the victory while Enright went the route for the losers.

Slover's Homer Decides

Two big innings were all that the Alpine Climbers needed to turn back the Esopus Legion by 10-5. The Alpiners scored five in the second and then erupted for five more big tallies in the sixth to break up a 5-5 tie ball game.

Bill Slover, shortstop for Alpine, has a perfect night but the last of his hits was the clincher. After Ferraro walked Johnny Provenzano in the sixth, Slover blasted a grand slam homer to clinch the decision. Slover also rapped out a double, triple and a single for the cycle.

The Legion took a 1-0 lead in the first only to have the Alpiners roar back with five in the second. The score remained 5-1 until the fifth when the Esopus squad knotted the count with a four-run rally. Then came Slover's decisive smash.

John Gaddis did the pitching for Alpine. Both Gaddis and Ferraro gave up 11 hits.

The unbeaten Subway Grill appeared to be well on its way to victory No. 6 with a 10-7 lead going into the bottom half of the seventh in the game with Lincoln Park Inn.

But a couple of booming triples by Ruzzo and Hickey helped the Inners to prod three runs across the payoff platter to knot the count. The game was called at the end of the eighth due to darkness.

Joe Amato, who pitched fine relief ball against the Alpine Monday night, went the distance for the Grillmen and was cuffed for 12 blows. Fink McElrath, who was the victim of some pretty ragged support, gave up 14 hits.

Dressen Rates Kiner Deal Help to Both

Brooklyn, June 5 (AP)—Brooklyn Manager Charlie Dressen today called the 10-player trade between Pittsburgh and Chicago that sent home run king Ralph Kiner to the Cubs "a deal that will help both clubs."

The consensus among players and officials of the Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves, however, was that if the Pirates didn't receive a lot of money in the transaction they were cheated.

"Pittsburgh should have gotten $900,000 along with those players," was the terse comment of Roy Campanella, the Dodgers' slugging catcher.

Other players guessed the Cubs threw in between $100,000 and $200,000 in the deal.

Pitcher Howie Pollet, catcher Joe Garagiola and utility man George Metkovitch went to the Cubs along with Kiner. The Pirates got first baseman Preston Ward, catcher Toby Atwell, pitcher Bob Schultz, outfielders Bob Addis and Gene Hermanski and the rights to infielder George Freese, now with Springfield of the International League. The Pirates also received an undisclosed amount of cash.

"Trading Kiner should add two years to Rickey's life," said Dressen. "He's been trying to unload Kiner and his big salary ever since he got to Pittsburgh.

"Rickey came off better than people might think. He needed a first baseman badly and Ward might be just the man for him. I think Atwell is a better all-around catcher than Garagiola. I know he can't throw too well but he's improving. Rickey didn't give up much besides Kiner. Pollet has a sore arm and Metkovitch is just a run of the mill ball player. Kiner, of course, will hit a lot of home runs for the Cubs.

Charlie Grimm, manager of the Braves, discreetly declined to say which club he thought got the better of the deal.

"All I can say is that if the Cubs think they've got the league's home run king for 1953, they're mistaken. We've got him. Our Eddie Mathews is going to lead the league in home runs this year and for many years to come."

Tigers Headed For New Record In Loss Column

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Detroit Tigers have an outstanding candidate for the American League rookie of the year, one of the loop's leading hitters and a reasonable chance of finishing the season with the worst record in modern baseball history.

As spring training ended Manager Freddie Hutchinson looked over his Tigers, who had finished 45 games behind the winning New York Yankees last year, and declared:

"We're not a last place outfit."

In Hutchinson's favor have been shortstop Harvey Kuenn, one of the most promising first year men in either league, and a heavy hitting lineup paced by Bob Nieman at .312. Yet today, with less than a third of the season gone, the Tigers have lost 34 out of 44 contests and are 21½ games out of first place.

If they continue to lose at this pace they would end the year with 35 victories and 119 losses. That's two more losses than any modern major league team has suffered. It also would be the worst percentage in history, .227. The record lows currently are 117 losses and a percentage of .235, both by the Philadelphia Athletics of 1916.

Detroit lost twice yesterday to the Athletics, 11-2, and 9-6, running its present winless string to 12. The Tigers have lost 10 and tied two since their last victory of May 22.

The second game was decided on a homer by Cass Michaels in the 10th and marked the 12 time this year that Detroit has been beaten in the last inning.

Yanks Chill Chisox

Meantime, the Yankees continued their winning streak at the expense of the Chicago White Sox with a 9-5 decision in 10 innings. The Yanks now have taken seven in a row, equalling their best 1952 winning spell.

Cleveland whipped the Boston Red Sox, 8-1, and Washington mopped up on the St. Louis Browns, 10-1.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who hadn't hit a home run in two games, broke out with four against Milwaukee and defeated the Braves, 10-5. The loss cut the Braves' league lead to a half game over the Dodgers.

Philadelphia tightened its hold on third place by turning back the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-5, in 10 innings. Pittsburgh won its third straight over Chicago, 6-1, and the New York Giants scored seven times in the eighth inning to wallop Cincinnati, 11-3.

The White Sox came from five runs behind to tie the score in the eighth. But a single by Mickey Mantle followed by Gil McDougald's home run produced two New York runs in the 10th and two more scored on three walks plus a Chicago error.

Brooklyn got its long ball attack going against Milwaukee as seven of the 11 hits went for extra bases. The Braves' pitchers contributed 10 walks. Max Surkont, who had won six straight, was tagged with his first loss. Bobby Morgan, Duke Snider, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo hit Brooklyn homers.

Record Field Is Expected for '53 Event on Rondout

Neal Bruck Is Again Head of Committee

A total of 150 invitations have been extended to drivers representing seven states of the northeast to participate in the 12th annual Kingston Regatta slated Sunday, July 5, by the Kingston Power Boat Association.

Among the noted drivers of outboards expected to take part in this year's action are Gib Peterman, top man in Class A, whose home is in Malverne; Don Whitfield, leader of the Class M title for many years of Montclair, N. J., Vic Scott, the famed Albany-to-New York pilot, who has won many Class C events and Freddie Mathews of Albany of the Class C Runabouts.

Neal Bruck, who is again heading the regatta committee, waxed optimistic today concerning this year's event.

"The 150 invitations are out and we expect another record field to compete this year. We're trying to improve the field every year and it's not too much to predict that this year's competition will be the best yet."

10 Heats on Program

The regatta scheduleof events has 10 heats on the program consisting of two heats each of Class M, A, B and C hydroplanes and two heats of C Service Runabouts. Prizes in cash and trophies will be valued more than $500.

Jack Feye is in charge of securing judges. Conrad J. Heiselman, former mayor who is honorary commodore of the KPBA this year, will act as honorary chairman of the regatta.

Sponsors already named for the July 5 event include Electrol Incorporated, C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Co., Lincoln Park Distributors, Wonderly Co., Home Victory Bakery, Kingston Chamber of Commerce, Rondout - Woodstock Oil Co., Fuller's Skyline and P. Ballantine & Son.

*Played one tie game.

Powered by a 17-hit attack, Beichert's Studies remained in second place a game behind the league-leading Subway Grill this week by pounding out a 13 to 3 victory over the win-less Sickler's Delivery.

In other contests, the VFW broke into the victory column for the first time this year with a 6 to 4 decision over the Hilltoppers while the Alpine Climbers took a 10-5 triumph over the Esopus Legion. In the other scheduled game, Subway Grill and Lincoln Park Inn wound up in a 10-10 deadlock after eight innings of play.

Lindhurst Is Hot

Ray Lindhurst, first sacker for Beicherts, sparked his club in the hitting column with four bingles in five trips, one a double. The first baseman also slugged across eight runs.

Beicherts piled up a 8-0 lead before Sicklers found the prescription of scoring runs in the bottom half of the third with a single tally. Beicherts scored at least one run every inning except the seventh.

Ed Decker went all the way for Beicherts and helped his own cause with two hits. He checked Sicklers with six hits.

Locked in a 4-4 tie, the VFW pushed across two runs in the top half of the eighth inning to turn back the Hilltoppers, 6-4.

Crespino, Ashdown and Amato each collected a pair of safeties for the winners. Bailey, Hobert and McGrane collected a brace of hits for the Hilltop squad. Scribner was credited with the victory while Enright went the route for the losers.

Slover's Homer Decides

Two big innings were all that the Alpine Climbers needed to turn back the Esopus Legion by 10-5. The Alpiners scored five in the second and then erupted for five more big tallies in the sixth to break up a 5-5 tie ball game.

Bill Slover, shortstop for Alpine, has a perfect night but the last of his hits was the clincher. After Ferraro walked Johnny Provenzano in the sixth, Slover blasted a grand slam homer to clinch the decision. Slover also rapped out a double, triple and a single for the cycle.

The Legion took a 1-0 lead in the first only to have the Alpiners roar back with five in the second. The score remained 5-1 until the fifth when the Esopus squad knotted the count with a four-run rally. Then came Slover's decisive smash.

John Gaddis did the pitching for Alpine. Both Gaddis and Ferraro gave up 11 hits.

The unbeaten Subway Grill appeared to be well on its way to victory No. 6 with a 10-7 lead going into the bottom half of the seventh in the game with Lincoln Park Inn.

But a couple of booming triples by Ruzzo and Hickey helped the Inners to prod three runs across the payoff platter to knot the count. The game was called at the end of the eighth due to darkness.

Joe Amato, who pitched fine relief ball against the Alpine Monday night, went the distance for the Grillmen and was cuffed for 12 blows. Fink McElrath, who was the victim of some pretty ragged support, gave up 14 hits.

Dressen Rates Kiner Deal Help to Both

Brooklyn, June 5 (AP)—Brooklyn Manager Charlie Dressen today called the 10-player trade between Pittsburgh and Chicago that sent home run king Ralph Kiner to the Cubs "a deal that will help both clubs."

The consensus among players and officials of the Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves, however, was that if the Pirates didn't receive a lot of money in the transaction they were cheated.

"Pittsburgh should have gotten $900,000 along with those players," was the terse comment of Roy Campanella, the Dodgers' slugging catcher.

Other players guessed the Cubs threw in between $100,000 and $200,000 in the deal.

Pitcher Howie Pollet, catcher Joe Garagiola and utility man George Metkovitch went to the Cubs along with Kiner. The Pirates got first baseman Preston Ward, catcher Toby Atwell, pitcher Bob Schultz, outfielders Bob Addis and Gene Hermanski and the rights to infielder George Freese, now with Springfield of the International League. The Pirates also received an undisclosed amount of cash.

"Trading Kiner should add two years to Rickey's life," said Dressen. "He's been trying to unload Kiner and his big salary ever since he got to Pittsburgh.

"Rickey came off better than people might think. He needed a first baseman badly and Ward might be just the man for him. I think Atwell is a better all-around catcher than Garagiola. I know he can't throw too well but he's improving. Rickey didn't give up much besides Kiner. Pollet has a sore arm and Metkovitch is just a run of the mill ball player. Kiner, of course, will hit a lot of home runs for the Cubs.

Charlie Grimm, manager of the Braves, discreetly declined to say which club he thought got the better of the deal.

"All I can say is that if the Cubs think they've got the league's home run king for 1953, they're mistaken. We've got him. Our Eddie Mathews is going to lead the league in home runs this year and for many years to come."

Tigers Headed For New Record In Loss Column

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Detroit Tigers have an outstanding candidate for the American League rookie of the year, one of the loop's leading hitters and a reasonable chance of finishing the season with the worst record in modern baseball history.

As spring training ended Manager Freddie Hutchinson looked over his Tigers, who had finished 45 games behind the winning New York Yankees last year, and declared:

"We're not a last place outfit."

In Hutchinson's favor have been shortstop Harvey Kuenn, one of the most promising first year men in either league, and a heavy hitting lineup paced by Bob Nieman at .312. Yet today, with less than a third of the season gone, the Tigers have lost 34 out of 44 contests and are 21½ games out of first place.

If they continue to lose at this pace they would end the year with 35 victories and 119 losses. That's two more losses than any modern major league team has suffered. It also would be the worst percentage in history, .227. The record lows currently are 117 losses and a percentage of .235, both by the Philadelphia Athletics of 1916.

Detroit lost twice yesterday to the Athletics, 11-2, and 9-6, running its present winless string to 12. The Tigers have lost 10 and tied two since their last victory of May 22.

The second game was decided on a homer by Cass Michaels in the 10th and marked the 12 time this year that Detroit has been beaten in the last inning.

Yanks Chill Chisox

Meantime, the Yankees continued their winning streak at the expense of the Chicago White Sox with a 9-5 decision in 10 innings. The Yanks now have taken seven in a row, equalling their best 1952 winning spell.

Cleveland whipped the Boston Red Sox, 8-1, and Washington mopped up on the St. Louis Browns, 10-1.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who hadn't hit a home run in two games, broke out with four against Milwaukee and defeated the Braves, 10-5. The loss cut the Braves' league lead to a half game over the Dodgers.

Philadelphia tightened its hold on third place by turning back the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-5, in 10 innings. Pittsburgh won its third straight over Chicago, 6-1, and the New York Giants scored seven times in the eighth inning to wallop Cincinnati, 11-3.

The White Sox came from five runs behind to tie the score in the eighth. But a single by Mickey Mantle followed by Gil McDougald's home run produced two New York runs in the 10th and two more scored on three walks plus a Chicago error.

Brooklyn got its long ball attack going against Milwaukee as seven of the 11 hits went for extra bases. The Braves' pitchers contributed 10 walks. Max Surkont, who had won six straight, was tagged with his first loss. Bobby Morgan, Duke Snider, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo hit Brooklyn homers.

Record Field Is Expected for '53 Event on Rondout

Neal Bruck Is Again Head of Committee

A total of 150 invitations have been extended to drivers representing seven states of the northeast to participate in the 12th annual Kingston Regatta slated Sunday, July 5, by the Kingston Power Boat Association.

Among the noted drivers of outboards expected to take part in this year's action are Gib Peterman, top man in Class A, whose home is in Malverne; Don Whitfield, leader of the Class M title for many years of Montclair, N. J., Vic Scott, the famed Albany-to-New York pilot, who has won many Class C events and Freddie Mathews of Albany of the Class C Runabouts.

Neal Bruck, who is again heading the regatta committee, waxed optimistic today concerning this year's event.

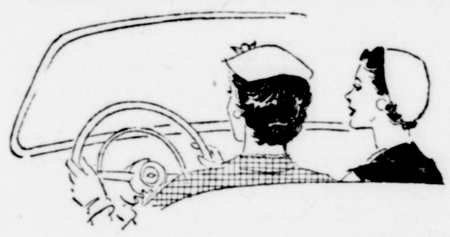
"The 150 invitations are out and we expect another record field to compete this year. We're trying to improve the field every year and it's not too much to predict that this year's competition will be the best yet."

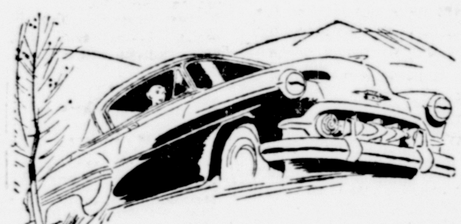
10 Heats on Program

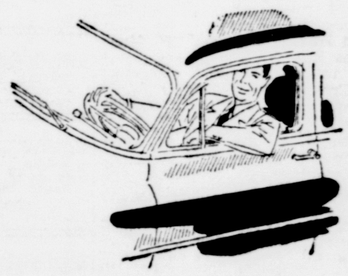
The regatta scheduleof events has 10 heats on the program consisting of two heats each of Class M, A, B and C hydroplanes and two heats of C Service Runabouts. Prizes in cash and trophies will be valued more than $500.

Jack Feye is in charge of securing judges. Conrad J. Heiselman, former mayor who is honorary commodore of the KPBA this year, will act as honorary chairman of the regatta.

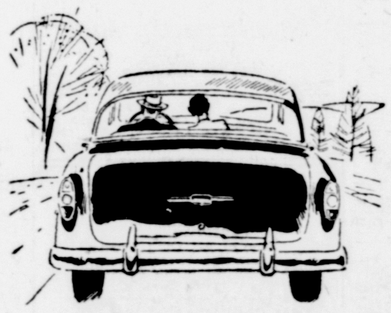
Sponsors already named for the July 5 event include Electrol Incorporated, C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Co., Lincoln Park Distributors, Wonderly Co., Home Victory Bakery, Kingston Chamber of Commerce, Rondout - Woodstock Oil Co., Fuller's Skyline and P. Ballantine & Son.

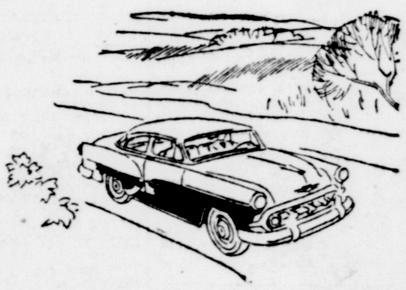






RECORD-BREAKING GAS MILEAGE
for the driving YOU do!





This year's Chevrolet brings you the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history. And it's the kind of everyday economy that saves you money wherever and however you drive!

CHEVROLET

TUNE IN THE DINAH SHORE SHOW ON NBC
Radio—Every Monday and Friday Evening

Inch along through heavy traffic. Roll up the miles in steady highway cruising. Long trips or short errands, byroads or boulevards, you get far more miles per gallon in this great new Chevrolet.

New high-compression power is the reason. Both the new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine in Powerglide* models -- and the advanced 108-h.p. "Thrift-King" engine in gearshift models--deliver more power on less gasoline. Acceleration and hill-climbing ability are much greater, fuel consumption much lower!

This is the kind of economy that counts the most--important gasoline savings for the driving you do, together with lower over-all costs of upkeep. And along with it, you enjoy all the other advantages that only the new Chevrolet offers you. Come in and drive this car--prove it for yourself!

*Combination of 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine and Powerglide automatic transmission available on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models only.

Receives Flowers at Revue Closing

Mrs. Helen Cashin Davitt receives basket of flowers from Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly at the closing performace of the Stars of Tomorrow revue featuring 230 pupils of the Cashin School of Dancing. The two-night attraction at the Broadway Theatre drew overflowing crowds to watch the youngsters from tots to teen-agers go through their routines amid regular professional stage settings. Mrs. Davitt thanked the parents for their cooperation in helping with the 23rd annual revue. (Anner photo)

Mayor Proclaims June as Month to Honor Dairymen

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today proclaimed June as Dairy Month in the city and urged "all public and private organizations, and all residents of the community to join in an appropriate observance thereof" to evidence an appreciation of the dairy industry.

The greatest concern of any community is for the health and well-being of its citizens, the mayor said. The quantity and quality of foods consumed, he added, is basic as an influence in any consideration of public health.

"Of all basic foods," he said, "milk has long been recognized as Mother Nature's nearly perfect food. With New York state one of the nation's leaders in production of this vital and healthgiving fluid, virtually unlimited quantities of milk and its by-products are easily and constantly available to the people of Kingston and surrounding areas."

Helps U. S. Economy

The proclamation stressed that dairying and milk processing "also add considerably to our economic health." The manufacture of such basic foods as butter, cheese, ice cream, and others, the mayor said, as well as other phases of the industry, provide employment for nearly 10,000,000 Americans, thousands of them in New York state, and many in this city.

June is selected as Dairy Month, the proclamation said, because it is "the month when nature's bounty is almost unlimited, and the dairy herds achieve their greatest and best production."

George J. Silkworth, chairman of the Kingston June Dairy Month Committee, said this is the 17th consecutive year Dairy Month has been observed.

Eisenhower Will Entertain Sports Celebrities Today

Heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano and Joe DiMaggio of baseball fame are among the topflight athletes invited to a White House buffet luncheon (noon EST).

Some ladies are on the invitation list, too — tennis greats Pauline Betz Addie and Helen Hull Jacobs, figure skater Carol Ann Peters and channel swimmer Florence Chadwick. So Mrs. Eisenhower arranged to be on hand.

The visiting sports stars are here for tonight's benefit baseball game between Republican and Democratic members of Congress. Eisenhower will throw out the first ball.

Baseball figures dominate the guest list at the luncheon.

Sarazen Only Golfer

Only one golfer is on the list —Gene Sarazen.

Three well-known footballers are included—Dick and Ed Modzelewski and Jack Scarbath, all of the University of Maryland.

Eisenhower plans to remain at the congressional ball game from 7:10 p. m. (EST) until 9:30 p. m. (EST), assuming any legislators are still able to pick up a bat at that late hour.

The rival managers, Reps. Bishop (R-Ill.) and Herlong (D-Fla.) both forecast victory today, barring possible filibusters by the opposition.

New Paltz Bank Is 100 Years Old

The Huguenot National Bank of New Paltz this month marks its 100th anniversary.

Organization of the bank was effected on February 10, 1853, with Edmund Eltinge the prime mover in the enterprise. Doors were open to the public on June 1, 1853, the bank then being a state bank.

With a single exception the members of the first board of directors were all farmers. Capital stock of $125,000 was nearly all owned by farmers residing within six or eight miles of New Paltz.

Members of the first board of directors were Alfred Deyo, Jacob G. DuBois, Edmund Eltinge, Mathusalem Elting, Capt. Abram Elting, Abm. V. N. Eltinge, Roelif Elting, Oscar Hasbrouck, John Howell, Abrm. P. LeFevre, Garret LeFevre, Moses P. LeFevre and Timothy Seymour.

Edmund Eltinge was the first president. The first cashier was A. G. Ruggles, who was succeeded not long afterwards by Nathan LeFevre.

The bank relinquished its state charter on April 10, 1865, and joined the National Banking Association under and according to the provisions of the Act of Congress approved June 3, 1864. It started its venture as the Huguenot National Bank with deposits totaling less than $40,000, and total assets of approximately $296,000. During the intervening years, the bank has enjoyed a steady, healthy growth as a commercial institution, with deposits at the present time of approximately $2,500,000 and total assets of over $3,000,000.

U. S. Bombers Set New Atlantic Record

Fairford Air Base, England, June 5 (AP)—Three American B-47 strato-jet bombers smashed the U. S. to England speed record today by flashing across the Atlantic in slightly over five and a half hours.

Two swept-wing, six-jet B-47s streaked from Limestone Air Base in Maine to Fairford in central England—a distance of 3,120 miles—in 5 hours 36 minutes. Another made it in 5 hours, 37 minutes.

The previous record was 5 hours, 38 minutes set last April 7 by two other B47s.

Today's flight averaged 566 miles an hour.

The planes form part of the 306th Medium Bombardment Wing—45 strato-jets in all—which are making mass flights from their U. S. base at Macdill Field, Tampa, Fla., to their new base in England.

Fifteen planes of the wing made the flight yesterday.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Capacity Audience Sees Variety Show

Woodstock, June 4—Although residents and the many guests in the village for the Memorial Day weekend were denied the privilege of watching the parade last Saturday morning, which was cancelled because of bad weather, they made up for it last Saturday night. The cast of the Parent-Teacher variety show, presented at the Woodstock School played to standing room only with about 500 people attending the performance.

Highlights of the show included the first and second act finale numbers—Pineapple In Blue, a Hawaiian extravaganza and the six sprightly Can Can dancers from Moulin Rouge. The Hawaiian group, a well-traveled and expert musical outfit, have appeared in Woodstock shows before, coming by way of Arabia, the Kentucky Mountains with time out as beachcombers in Trinidad. Happily their instruments remain the same and their rhythm as always impeccable. In the ensemble were Lorne Swayzie, violin; Mel Leshen, piano; Dave Huffine, washtub bass; Clem Nessel, accordion; John Pike, banjo and drums; Dick Burlingame, banjo. This time they brought with them the peer of hula dancers, a lovely, swaying reed—who also blows a mean reed—LaBelle—we mean Bill Wingate. Wingate's wiggle stopped the show cold.

Can Can Delights

Just before the final curtain a gasp of delight greeted the six Can Can dancers who performed an authentic version of the famous dance in gaily ruffled skirts and panties. Mrs. Norma Champanier, leader of the troup, spent several weeks training the chorus which included Marjorie Ruff, Peggy More, Estelle Leshen, Alice Wolven and Ida Greenberg.

Two singers who gained a high place in the hearts of Woodstock audiences are Gladys Tandler, soprano and Alan Gilbert, baritone. Following his spirited version of Old Mother Hubbard, Gilbert won a spontaneous round of applause when he sang the solo for which he gained fame for singing in South Pacific, the lilting Younger Than Springtime. For their duet of the evening, Gladys Tandler and Gilbert once more blended their voices magnificently in the supremely romantic Bess You is My Woman, from Porgy and Bess.

Explains How to Draw

Everyone in this village would like to know something about how to start a drawing, even though they might not find the time to try it. Artist and illustrator Walter Seaton attempted to explain the intricate process—one which he said he'd been working on for 40 years—and it's guaranteed that anyone who tries it will accomplish a miracle if he gets beyond the drawing of a lima bean. Seaton stepped off into the mysteries of form, content and space and proved in his hilarious discourse that the contents of a can were cranberries, but he was darned if he knew how to draw them. "There's nothing to starting a drawing," he concluded, "the whole thing is to stop it!"

Two eminent folk singers, Sam Eskin who is noted for his collections and recordings of folk music, and Jerry Reed, who has appeared in many Broadway shows, graced the program, demonstrating that folk singing is a wide and exciting art form.

In a sophisticated group of songs, accompanying himself on the piano, David Fairbanks lent a Dwight Fiske night club air to the evening. Norma Champanier swung the spotlight back to the concert stage and set off on a mad chase of Lo The Gentle Lark, winning the race by a high C from the twittering notes of Bill Wingate's recorder. Magic, including a number of spectacular card tricks, was performed by Dr. Benjamin Pressman, who is well-known for his many performances in the New York schools.

Two groups of square dancers from the Woodstock school performed several sets with agile precision. In the younger group were Darlene Wilber, Ann Smith, Teri Kellwy, Dianne Smith, Wendie Christiana, Maryanne Johnston, Margo King, Janice Atkins, Jimmie Kinns, Robin Townsend, Jay Van Wagenen, Harley Avery, Webb Dordick, Jeffrey Davis, Georgie Klippel and Bobby Houst. In the older group were Jean Wilson, Doris Mellin, Bonnie Mae Wilber, Lynn Herbert, Marie Klippel, Carol Ann Hefty, Lynn Kinns, Marilyn Wolven, Ira Deutsch, Atlee Rapp, Tommy Huffine, Wayne Underhill, Paul Townsend, Danny Perlman, Richard Kullmann and Cappy Foster.

A skit titled Truant Husbands was presented by Ray Burgevin and Louise Brokenshaw. The show was under the direction of Houston Richards who also served as emcee and the musical numbers were accompanied by Mrs. Leo Herbert, pianist.

Bats are not attracted by light, but they often approach lights to catch insects which are attracted to the light.

'Frogs' From France

The English attributed the assumed weakness and small stature of the French, during 16th century wars between the French and English, to their eating of frogs. Hence, frog eaters, which later was shortened to "frog," a common nickname for a Frenchman.

Mrs. Helen Cashin Davitt receives basket of flowers from Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly at the closing performace of the Stars of Tomorrow revue featuring 230 pupils of the Cashin School of Dancing. The two-night attraction at the Broadway Theatre drew overflowing crowds to watch the youngsters from tots to teen-agers go through their routines amid regular professional stage settings. Mayor Proclaims June as Month to Honor Dairymen

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today proclaimed June as Dairy Month in the city and urged "all public and private organizations, and all residents of the community to join in an appropriate observance thereof" to evidence an appreciation of the dairy industry.

The greatest concern of any community is for the health and well-being of its citizens, the mayor said. The quantity and quality of foods consumed, he added, is basic as an influence in any consideration of public health.

"Of all basic foods," he said, "milk has long been recognized as Mother Nature's nearly perfect food. With New York state one of the nation's leaders in production of this vital and health-giving fluid, virtually unlimited quantities of milk and its by-products are easily and constantly available to the people of Kingston and surrounding areas."

Helps U. S. Economy

The proclamation stressed that dairying and milk processing "also add considerably to our economic health." The manufacture of such basic foods as butter, cheese, ice cream, and others, the mayor said, as well as other phases of the industry, provide employment for nearly 10,000,000 Americans, thousands of them in New York state, and many in this city.

June is selected as Dairy Month, the proclamation said, because it is "the month when nature's bounty is almost unlimited, and the dairy herds achieve their greatest and best production."

George J. Silkworth, chairman of the Kingston June Dairy Month Committee, said this is the 17th consecutive year Dairy Month has been observed.

Eisenhower Will Entertain Sports Celebrities Today

Washington, June 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower, a golfer and fisherman himself, plays host today to 44 celebrities of the sports world.

Heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano and Joe DiMaggio of baseball fame are among the topflight athletes invited to a White House buffet luncheon (noon EST).

Some ladies are on the invitation list, too — tennis greats Pauline Betz Addie and Helen Hull Jacobs, figure skater Carol Ann Peters and channel swimmer Florence Chadwick. So Mrs. Eisenhower arranged to be on hand.

The visiting sports stars are here for tonight's benefit baseball game between Republican and Democratic members of Congress. Eisenhower will throw out the first ball.

Baseball figures dominate the guest list at the luncheon.

Sarazen Only Golfer

Only one golfer is on the list—Gene Sarazen.

Three well-known footballers are included—Dick and Ed Modzelewski and Jack Scarbath, all of the University of Maryland.

Eisenhower plans to remain at the congressional ball game from 7:10 p. m. (EST) until 9:30 p. m. (EST), assuming any legislators are still able to pick up a bat at that late hour.

Sixty-eight members of Congress have signed up for the game, an annual event put on by the Washington Evening Star to raise money for sending needy children to summer camp.

The rival managers, Reps. Bishop (R-Ill.) and Herlong (D-Fla.) both forecast victory today, barring possible filibusters by the opposition.

New Paltz Bank Is 100 Years Old

The Huguenot National Bank of New Paltz this month marks its 100th anniversary.

Organization of the bank was effected on February 10, 1853, with Edmund Eltinge the prime mover in the enterprise. Doors were open to the public on June 1, 1853, the bank then being a state bank.

With a single exception the members of the first board of directors were all farmers. Capital stock of $125,000 was nearly all owned by farmers residing within six or eight miles of New Paltz.

Members of the first board of directors were Alfred Deyo, Jacob G. DuBois, Edmund Eltinge, Mathusalem Elting, Capt. Abram Elting, Abm. V. N. Eltinge, Roelif Elting, Oscar Hasbrouck, John Howell, Abrm. P. LeFevre, Garret LeFevre, Moses P. LeFevre and Timothy Seymour.

Edmund Eltinge was the first president. The first cashier was A. G. Ruggles, who was succeeded not long afterwards by Nathan LeFevre.

The bank relinquished its state charter on April 10, 1865, and joined the National Banking Association under and according to the provisions of the Act of Congress approved June 3, 1864. It started its venture as the Huguenot National Bank with deposits totaling less than $40,000, and total assets of approximately $296,000. During the intervening years, the bank has enjoyed a steady, healthy growth as a commercial institution, with deposits at the present time of approximately $2,500,000 and total assets of over $3,000,000.

U. S. Bombers Set New Atlantic Record

Fairford Air Base, England, June 5 (AP)—Three American B-47 strato-jet bombers smashed the U. S. to England speed record today by flashing across the Atlantic in slightly over five and a half hours.

Two swept-wing, six-jet B-47s streaked from Limestone Air Base in Maine to Fairford in central England—a distance of 3,120 miles—in 5 hours 36 minutes. Another made it in 5 hours, 37 minutes.

The previous record was 5 hours, 38 minutes set last April 7 by two other B47s.

Today's flight averaged 566 miles an hour.

The planes form part of the 306th Medium Bombardment Wing—45 strato-jets in all—which are making mass flights from their U. S. base at Macdill Field, Tampa, Fla., to their new base in England.

Fifteen planes of the wing made the flight yesterday.

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Capacity Audience Sees Variety Show

Woodstock, June 4—Although residents and the many guests in the village for the Memorial Day weekend were denied the privilege of watching the parade last Saturday morning, which was cancelled because of bad weather, they made up for it last Saturday night. The cast of the Parent-Teacher variety show, presented at the Woodstock School played to standing room only with about 500 people attending the performance.

Highlights of the show included the first and second act finale numbers—Pineapple In Blue, a Hawaiian extravaganza and the six sprightly Can Can dancers from Moulin Rouge. The Hawaiian group, a well-traveled and expert musical outfit, have appeared in Woodstock shows before, coming by way of Arabia, the Kentucky Mountains with time out as beachcombers in Trinidad. Happily their instruments remain the same and their rhythm as always impeccable. In the ensemble were Lorne Swayzie, violin; Mel Leshen, piano; Dave Huffine, washtub bass; Clem Nessel, accordion; John Pike, banjo and drums; Dick Burlingame, banjo. This time they brought with them the peer of hula dancers, a lovely, swaying reed—who also blows a mean reed—LaBelle—we mean Bill Wingate. Wingate's wiggle stopped the show cold.

Can Can Delights

Just before the final curtain a gasp of delight greeted the six Can Can dancers who performed an authentic version of the famous dance in gaily ruffled skirts and panties. Mrs. Norma Champanier, leader of the troup, spent several weeks training the chorus which included Marjorie Ruff, Peggy More, Estelle Leshen, Alice Wolven and Ida Greenberg.

Two singers who gained a high place in the hearts of Woodstock audiences are Gladys Tandler, soprano and Alan Gilbert, baritone. Following his spirited version of Old Mother Hubbard, Gilbert won a spontaneous round of applause when he sang the solo for which he gained fame for singing in South Pacific, the lilting Younger Than Springtime. For their duet of the evening, Gladys Tandler and Gilbert once more blended their voices magnificently in the supremely romantic Bess You is My Woman, from Porgy and Bess.

Explains How to Draw

Everyone in this village would like to know something about how to start a drawing, even though they might not find the time to try it. Artist and illustrator Walter Seaton attempted to explain the intricate process—one which he said he'd been working on for 40 years—and it's guaranteed that anyone who tries it will accomplish a miracle if he gets beyond the drawing of a lima bean. Seaton stepped off into the mysteries of form, content and space and proved in his hilarious discourse that the contents of a can were cranberries, but he was darned if he knew how to draw them. "There's nothing to starting a drawing," he concluded, "the whole thing is to stop it!"

Two eminent folk singers, Sam Eskin who is noted for his collections and recordings of folk music, and Jerry Reed, who has appeared in many Broadway shows, graced the program, demonstrating that folk singing is a wide and exciting art form.

In a sophisticated group of songs, accompanying himself on the piano, David Fairbanks lent a Dwight Fiske night club air to the evening. Norma Champanier swung the spotlight back to the concert stage and set off on a mad chase of Lo The Gentle Lark, winning the race by a high C from the twittering notes of Bill Wingate's recorder. Magic, including a number of spectacular card tricks, was performed by Dr. Benjamin Pressman, who is well-known for his many performances in the New York schools.

Two groups of square dancers from the Woodstock school performed several sets with agile precision. In the younger group were Darlene Wilber, Ann Smith, Teri Kellwy, Dianne Smith, Wendie Christiana, Maryanne Johnston, Margo King, Janice Atkins, Jimmie Kinns, Robin Townsend, Jay Van Wagenen, Harley Avery, Webb Dordick, Jeffrey Davis, Georgie Klippel and Bobby Houst. In the older group were Jean Wilson, Doris Mellin, Bonnie Mae Wilber, Lynn Herbert, Marie Klippel, Carol Ann Hefty, Lynn Kinns, Marilyn Wolven, Ira Deutsch, Atlee Rapp, Tommy Huffine, Wayne Underhill, Paul Townsend, Danny Perlman, Richard Kullmann and Cappy Foster.

A skit titled Truant Husbands was presented by Ray Burgevin and Louise Brokenshaw. The show was under the direction of Houston Richards who also served as emcee and the musical numbers were accompanied by Mrs. Leo Herbert, pianist.

Traffic on Spans Shows Increase

Traffic over the three Hudson river bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority was 6.74 per cent higher last month than in May, 1952, the authority reported today.

The three bridges clocked 575,169 vehicles last month and 538,848 in May, 1952, increase of 36,321.

The totals include Memorial Day travel on three days which was slightly under that of 1952 apparently because of unfavorable weather.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the holiday weekend, the bridges clocked 74,061. This was 1,138 less than the 75,199 clocked for the holiday week-end in 1952.

Last month's total on the Rip Van Winkle bridge was 131,893 vehicles. The May, 1952 total was 123,255, an increase of 8,638 vehicles or 7.01 per cent.

The Mid-Hudson bridge clocked 307,467 against 289,583, a gain of 17,884 vehicles or 6.18 per cent, and the Bear Mountain bridge total was 135,809 against 126,010, a gain of 9,799 or 7.78 per cent.

The Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry showed losses in both vehicular and pedestrian travel last month. It carried 6,839 vehicles last month and 6,956 in May, 1952, a loss of 117, and 2,335 pedestrians against 2,633, a loss of 298.

Traffic on Spans Shows Increase

Traffic over the three Hudson river bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority was 6.74 per cent higher last month than in May, 1952, the authority reported today.

The three bridges clocked 575,169 vehicles last month and 538,848 in May, 1952, increase of 36,321.

The totals include Memorial Day travel on three days which was slightly under that of 1952 apparently because of unfavorable weather.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the holiday weekend, the bridges clocked 74,061. This was 1,138 less than the 75,199 clocked for the holiday week-end in 1952.

Last month's total on the Rip Van Winkle bridge was 131,893 vehicles. The May, 1952 total was 123,255, an increase of 8,638 vehicles or 7.01 per cent.

The Mid-Hudson bridge clocked 307,467 against 289,583, a gain of 17,884 vehicles or 6.18 per cent, and the Bear Mountain bridge total was 135,809 against 126,010, a gain of 9,799 or 7.78 per cent.

The Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry showed losses in both vehicular and pedestrian travel last month. It carried 6,839 vehicles last month and 6,956 in May, 1952, a loss of 117, and 2,335 pedestrians against 2,633, a loss of 298.
